EXAMPLE

Of the Mode to Adopt in obtaining, say a Watch, on THOMAS B. WAY'S Easy Payment System.

The Person requiring a watch on making first payment, has simply to sign a form giving their name, occupation, and address in full, and the name of a respectable person or householder (not as a guarantee, but simply as a proof that they are the person they represent themselves to be, and immediately the watch or other goods are delivered.

Customers who once adopt the plan always express their satisfaction, and are anxious to have other articles.

Watches forwarded by post for repairs, or otherwise, are recommended to be carefully packed in a tin or wood box, with wool or paper, to prevent their shaking about.

MORNINGTON SHIRE COUNCIL.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 28, 1888. PRESIDENT - Mr. Irvine (President) Turner.

From the Mayor of Melbourne, soliciting monetary assistance in aid of a fund for suitably accommodating the heronism displayed by Capt. Richardson, the commander of the Cheltenham, Thompson, Downward, Henton and Box.

From J. L. Lemon, manager of the "Mornington Leader," soliciting a share of the council's advertisements and printing.

From J. Fletcher, calling attention to the condition of Ballinacree, Clerk of Works, and Mr. J. H. Bannett, suggesting improvements in Main-street, to be attended to.

From J. E. Adams, secretary of Baxter's Race Club, asking the council to have the 8th February declared a holiday as it was the day of their race meeting.

From Mr. Green, asking to be allowed to erect a bath on the beach near his property.

From F. T. Sargood, asking the council to allow of a deviation in the road near his property.

The members for the north riding reported having met and consulted with Mr. Young about the purchase of the flats, and they recommended that the amount of £250 be expended for that purpose.

The Clerk of Works brought up a report on the maintenance matter required which he said would cost over £200.

The Clerk of Works was instructed to inform the manager of the Frankston Brick Works that an underground drain must be put in at the works instead of the present dangerous channel.

The rate collector reported the receipt of £34 10s. Admitted. And accounts amounting to £211 1s. were passed for payment.

The President was appointed to represent the council on a deputation to the extension of the suburban railway to Brighton.

LORD BEACONFIELD'S DOUBLE-BEDDED ROOM.

WIKES the other arrival at the Kaiserhof Hotel, Berlin, from London, to have rooms in readiness for "The Prince Minister of England," it was accompanied by the request that in the bedroom of the noble lord there should be two beds placed close to each other.

This created some surprise, as it was known that Lord Beaconsfield was a widower. He arrived with his suit and took possession of his apartments. Night came. Servants, as we all know, are very curious, and of these the Hotel Kaiserhof made no exception to the rule.

The next night the same corps d'observation was on duty in the premises of the great man's chamber.

A woman's companion has stated that the present method of printing is to be replaced by Sir Bryan O'Leighan, and that the proposed change is expected to give that body greater prestige and power. The proposed change may be contemplated, but the increased prestige and power are undeniably questionable. To those who know how things are done, the Knight of Belfast is nowhere as a tactician in comparison with Mr. Bent.

NEW OPPORTUNITY.
A woman's companion has stated that the present method of printing is to be replaced by Sir Bryan O'Leighan, and that the proposed change is expected to give that body greater prestige and power. The proposed change may be contemplated, but the increased prestige and power are undeniably questionable. To those who know how things are done, the Knight of Belfast is nowhere as a tactician in comparison with Mr. Bent.
