THE MURDER OF A FARMER'S WIFE

It is a sad story, and such an account of a murder is not often met with. The victim was a woman, and the murderer was a man. The story is full of interest and is well worth reading.

MR. W. R. FITZGERALD MOORE A SILVER KING.

The terms of the earthquake were soon forgotten, and life went on as usual at Epping. The nitrate and silver industries of the district making great strides Mr. Moore saw there was a splendid opening for an ironworks, and accordingly notified his firm that he would leave there and start on his own account.

His first business was to acquire the necessary plant for the ironworks, and he carried out the huge plant for the ironworks, and he carried out the huge plant for the ironworks, and he carried out the huge plant for the ironworks.

He had not known the world before, but after various adventures in Europe and America during the preceding four years he had returned to his native land, and he had found himself penniless.
