Announcements.

Come old, come young, come great, come
 And listen to what I say [small]
 Concerning a shop in High street,
 Conducted by Perry and Grey.

'Tis there where you can be supplied
 With goods of every kind,
 And if you prefer, on the shop
 You really must be blind.

The window, it is always full
 With trinkets, books, and toys,
 And there you will find the things you need
 For either girls or boys.

Teapots, basins, and China plates,
 Glassware, dishes, and jugs,
 Cans, saucers, and flower pots,
 Also tea-fighting mugs.

Then there is the other window,
 That supplies the wants of all
 With tobacco, cigarettes, pipes,
 Hats, wickets, bats, and balls.

Then step in a little further,
 You will find the hairdressing saloon;
 It often to me has been mentioned,
 To Northcote this place is a boon.

Perry's aim is to please all who visit
 His saloon—keep it clean and so neat.
 A shave there is also a pleasure—
 In Northcote I'm sure can't be beat.

PERRY & GREY.
