KITCHEN & FLOWER GARDEN

Practical Hints.
By THOMAS LANE & Co., Nurserymen & Seedsmen
448 Bourke Street, Melbourne.

Calendar of Operations for November.

With this month commences the summer heat which, where the ground is moist, increases vegetation, but where moisture is scarce or wanting, retards it.

To have a sufficient supply of moisture for plants in dry weather where water is not available for watering is possible by intelligent gardening. To do this the ground must be drained so that the water will not lodge after heavy rains.

Greenhouses should be painted inside with a mixture of white wash and sour milk of the consistency of cream. This is also of advantage to many houses where the sun shines on the glass strongly through the windows. It is easily washed off.

Woods that are constantly growing should be as constantly hoed down. It is easier to hoe down a little weed than to wait till it has grown big.

It is easier to hoe down a little weed than to wait till it has grown big. Sorrell, that scourge, should be hoed down as soon as ever it appears above ground.

By constantly hoeing the plants get exhausted. Do not allow it to seed as it will shortly do if not kept down.

Spray trees infested with the following insect pests, with a solution of 1 part London Purple to about 200 of water.

The above match was concluded at Croxton last Saturday and resulted in a win for Northcote by 9 wickets and 3 runs.

KITCHEN & FLOWER GARDEN

Practical Hottings

With this month commences the summer heat which, where the ground is moist, increases vegetation, but where moisture is scarce or wanting retards or destroys it.

To have a sufficient supply of moisture for plants in dry weather water is not available for watering in the open ground must be drained so that the water will not lodge, the surface of the ground cakes.

Greenhouses should be painted inside with a mixture of whitening and sour milk of the consistency of cream. This is also of advantage to the plants, as the sun pours in too strongly through the windows.

It is well that the plants should be kept in a little water, but not so much as to cause them to rot. It is better to have them in a little water than to have them in a great deal of water.

Watering should be done in the morning, and the water should be allowed to soak into the soil. It is better to water a plant once a week than to water it every day.
