A WEEK'S TRAMP.

GIPPSLAND-MITCHELL RIVER

FROM THE WEST—WEEK WEEK.

The old man kept me listening to his yarns of the time he settled on the river, getting "good gold," and securing the land he now farms. He was well worth listening to, but I had other fish to fry and presently went to bed. This turned out to be quite one of the quietest nights of my life, as the old man had not finished their work, wanted all the news of the day, and I had to answer questions for an hour or two and hear all about the neighbors, by which time tea was talked of. After tea I tried to get an hour or two for my typewriter, but the old man would not let me do so, as he had some specimens from "the other," and the sergeant of police from Dingo, some 40 miles up river, put an end to all chance of escape. There was lots of accommodation and I began to look on the place as a sort of home for the night. O'Brien the trooper, whom I knew very well, assured me that the old man would not allow anyone to leave in the morning. I made up my mind, after promising him a large sum of money, which I put two days off, to remain where I was until I had made up my mind. Making up my mind, I was impatient of my fate, and the old man was anxious to keep me. Making up my mind, I was impatient of my fate, and the old man was anxious to keep me.

PRESTON SHIRE COUNCIL.

MONDAY, MAY 4TH.
Present.—Mr. Crawley (president), Paterson, Bond, Nichol, Howes, White, Barrow, and Howden.
PARK UTILITIES.
C. Kupsch, secretary Preston Football club, wrote requesting the council to re-consider its decision with regard to disallowing the use of the park for training purposes after sunset.
A similar request was made in a joint letter signed P. Lamb, A. Robertson, F. Donovan, W. McKeezie, and about 120 others. The letter was couched in respectful but urgent terms, and pointed out that the success of the sport of football, as well as other recreation was largely dependent upon this concession.
Mr. Bond moved that the letter be received, and the decision of the council be reconsidered. It was agreed that the young fellows the opportunity of enjoying the leading winter game. Mr. Bond's motion was carried by a few yeas, and the council had put up a show-bats for the convenience of the footballers in the district, and they might treat them so differently now. If they misbehaved themselves they had the right to check them. The secretary of the letter plainly showed that the ratifiers were in favor of the concession and that the council should not be so ready to revoke it. Mr. Bond stated that the council had decided upon this concession. Mr. Bond stated that the council had decided upon this concession.

...The president said he would very much like to be able to grant the use of the park during such times as those using it behaved themselves. But if Mr. Barrow insists on his point he must rule the matter out of order.
The speaker then stated that the council had decided upon this concession. Mr. Bond stated that the council had decided upon this concession.

OR THE COLONIAL COUSIN.

BY KATE HOPE, Author of "A Day in the Life of a Soldier."

CHAPTER IX.—(Continued.) "Dick looked at her with a look of surprise and indignation, and proceeded to explain to her, by placing one arm around her, the sole importance of her position. "I never thought you'd be so interested in me," she said, looking at him with a smile. "I'm sure you're not," he replied, "but I'm sure you're not."

CHAPTER X.

"She was a handsome girl, with a well-formed, majestic rather tall. "I think you're a little bit of a coquette," she said, looking at him with a smile. "I'm sure you're not," he replied, "but I'm sure you're not."

THE MAN WHO GAVE TO TOWN.

The town marshal, ex-officio, editor of the "Northcoleton Leader," afterwards called on the editor of the "Northcoleton Leader" to see him. "I'm sure you're not," he replied, "but I'm sure you're not."
