Already the marrying of two or more wives is of fashion in Turkey, says Mr. E. Alexander Powell in the course of a very interesting article on 'Prisoners of the Harzen.'

Ducks differ from fowls, as they do not require houses which are high and elaborate houses are quite unnecessary.

A Russian peasant named Thatchenko, of Borzenok, in the province of Kieff, must be quite the most unfortunate of the flying men.

An American report of the contemplated construction of an ocean liner 2000 feet long, having a speed of 10 knots an hour, has drawn from Lieut. Newton, R.N.R., an interesting statement.

Dehzen: One thing I like about Lithuania is that he always stands up for his friends.

Brown, very proud of his first-born: Ah, even now my wife says he is just like me in many of his little ways.

Howell: I don't depend on the formation of early habits...

Basel Youth: Miss Belle, does your mother object to my coming home so much?

'There!' exclaimed an innkeeper. 'Have you never tasted anything like that?' 'Harcum's!'

A KNIGHT OF THE NIGHT.

HOW A BURGLAR PROFITED BY A HINT.

By M. E. Gale.

"What was that?" "It has to be illustrated," said the burglar, "and really, I don't like to be for the job would be on you."

"Oh, I won't mind," said Marion. "I'll lay it on someone else, but it does not hurt, does it?"

"Certainly not. Now, the main part of the job is for you to clean your eyes and cover them up with your fingers, so while you hold your thumb over your eyes, then you are ready, and the numerals up to the tune of 'Yankee Doodle,' so."

RETURN OF THE SHAWL.

There are signs of the shawl's return.

By M. E. Gale.

"There are signs of the shawl's return," said the reporter, "and it is not without interest to note that the shawl has been seen in the possession of a woman who is a member of the present generation."
