THE BOARD OF WORKS.

A PATERNAL EMPLOYER.
Extended Furlough Granted to Long Term Employees.

In response to a request by Cr. Hayes, the Board of Works Commission (Cr. Dennis) gave particulars of officers of the Board who had been granted extended leave on full pay. At a previous meeting Cr. Hayes asked if it was not a fact that whilst a number of officers had been granted leave extending up to six months on full pay that another officer had been refused leave to repair damages caused by bush fires on his farm at Noojee. Cr. Dennis said that leave had been granted during the past three years as follows:—10/7/23—Robert Richardson, six months' furlough on full pay after 40 years' service; 5/2/24—W. Lockwood, granted six months' furlough on full pay after 29 years' service; 7/7/25—W. Archer, granted six months' leave on full pay after 36 years' service; 29/9/25—extended leave granted to G. A. Gibbs, secretary of the Board, for the month of full pay, and also an allowance of £1000 for travelling expenses whilst on a trip to England, 34 years' service; 8/12/25—N. G. Plummer, granted six months' furlough on full pay to go to England and America, and also to attend to his expenses, after 34 years' service. Cr. Dennis said that in this case the engineer was to inspect the latest designs in sewerage systems and to operate about Northcote and Brighton. 19/1/26—Six months' leave on full pay granted to J. G. McNeil, after 30 years' service; 1/2/26—Cr. Dennis granted 12 months' leave on full pay and six months' without pay, to Mr. G. Plummer, after 30 years' service; 2/2/26—Superannuation allowance to chairman (Mr. Carré Hillier), fixed at £1000 on his retirement from the Board, for his life only; his contribution towards the superannuation fund to be £150 a year. Cr. Dennis said an employe named Hayman had asked for six months' leave on full pay to restore his farm damaged at Noojee. Hayman was a draftsman and got £360 a year, and the application was refused. The Board also refused to give him three months' leave on full pay, but he had obtained his annual leave.

Tram and Railway Fare Increases.

At the meeting of the Northcote City Council on Monday evening a letter was received from the town clerk, Richmond, re conference concerning increase of tramway and railway fares, proposals to be discussed. "That the State Government be urged to repeal section 88 of the Melbourne and Metropolitan Tramways Act 1919 so as to relieve the Tramways Board of not less than £106,000 a year, and substitute therefor the following:—

1. State to contribute one-half of the cost of the maintenance and upkeep of the Infectious Diseases Hospital, as was done prior to 1919.

2. That the Fire Brigades Act be amended so that two-thirds of the expenditure of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade shall be borne by the insurance companies.

3. That the Government be urged to contribute one-half of the cost of the maintenance and upkeep of the Infectious Diseases Hospital, as was done prior to 1919.

4. That the Government be urged to contribute one-half of the cost of the maintenance and upkeep of the Infectious Diseases Hospital, as was done prior to 1919.

OUR MILK SUPPLY.

PRODUCTION, DISTRIBUTION, COST.

(To the Editor.)
Sir,—With your permission I will write a few lines on the above for publication and education, thanking you in anticipation.

As is well known, milk is one of the principal human foods. And is to be regretted that 80 per cent. of our babies, for reasons well known, do not know the taste of their mother's milk. Therefore it is necessary to find a substitute. Accordingly it is necessary to turn to the dairy cow. Owing to municipal stringency and, in most cases, ignorant by-laws, most of the milk used has to come some distance by road or rail. Hence in several instances it is pretty stale before the child receives it. To produce a good pure milk requires good grass, good food, good clean management, etc. For the consumers' benefit I will give them information first to the Dairy Supervision Act—what it has done and is doing. The Government dairy supervisors are a fine body of men. Before any milk product can be sold, he must get a license. Before the license is granted a thorough inspection is made by the inspector of the cows, the cow sheds, milking machines, cooling vessels, cooling apparatus, cooling room and drainage and appliances used for the cooling of the milk. The cow sheds are inspected for cleanliness and the water which the cows drink is also examined. The milking conditions must be such that the cow's udder is washed prior to milking with distilled water, the cloth used for this purpose to be washed out twice before use. Also the milker's hands have to be washed before and after milking each cow. Vessels with which the milk is handled must be in close proximity to the cow sheds. The milk, when it comes into the bucket from the cow, must be protected by a close fitting lid from the cow to the cooling room. And so every cow is milked, the milk with its animal heat goes direct to the water cooler, which reduces the temperature to a point that enables the milk to be kept sweet and wholesome for at least twelve hours after it leaves the cooler. From the cooler the milk goes direct into the milk cans for delivery to the retailers. These cans are milked, stamped, and if the milk on inspection is found deficient in fatty matter, the inspector has the right to inspect the producer, who is liable to prosecution. Once the seal is broken the producer's liability ceases. (To be continued.)

FOOTPATHS—HAROLD STREET
A LIVELY DISCUSSION.

At the meeting of the Northcote City Council on Monday night, during consideration of the recommendations of the Public Works Committee, Cr. Dennis moved the following clause:—

Footpaths, Harold Street.—That the footpaths on south side of Harold Street, from 11th street to railway, one half of cost to be charged to owners of premises abutting thereon, and the other half to the West Ward apportionment.

In reply to Cr. Dennis, Cr. Dennis said the path had never been paved. Cr. Johnson said that this opened up a big question. The council had adopted a wrong course. It was better to spend the profits on extensions.

Cr. Dennis said on the St. George's road line the fares had been raised 2d per trip—which was 1/- per week. He was not there to tell Parliament where the tramway should be put, but to say that the tramway should be put on the St. George's road line. He did not want to see more levies put on the house owners in the way of increased fare premiums.

Cr. Dennis said that if the clause were put into action the insurance premiums would go up. If clause 1 were adopted by the Government the municipalities would have to make larger contributions towards the Infectious Diseases Hospital. If this condition is carried, would it improve the position? He did not want to see more levies put on the house owners in the way of increased fare premiums.

PAY RATES NOW

Last Day June 10.
Ratepayers are reminded that the last day on which to pay municipal rates in the cities of Northcote and Preston, and the Shire of Whittlesea is June 10.

After that date ratepayers who have not paid their rates are not only not entitled to vote at the annual municipal elections in August, but they will also lose their right to vote at the annual municipal elections in August. There is always a last minute rush, so that everyone should make a point of getting in early, and so save themselves the trouble of waiting at the rate collectors' office.

BUNDOORA NOTES.
We are having lovely May weather, and the country looks like spring. The Heidelberg Council have decided, owing to the inadequate supply of water, to temporarily repair the Plenty road. The foreman, Mr. Purvis, knows his work, as can be seen by the roving side to which he is making, which mean life to any road. If Whittlesea Shire would only wake up and do the same to Miller's Hill, they would save hundreds of pounds later on. The dances in the local hall are well patronized. The local sports ground is being treated by the civilizing plough, but it is a simple good running ground adjacent. Milk suppliers are watching the progress of the City Council with interest, as the majority of city milk supply. Some consider that it will be a great boon to producers of this necessity of life. Critic—"I strongly urge that the hero shoot himself in the last act instead of taking poison. Author—"Why? Critic—"It will serve to awaken the audience and let them know the play is over." Kind old lady—"Ah, my boy, my poor boy, are you in pain?" The Sufferer (through his tears)—"Nun-uh-no; the pain is in my..."

He concluded that the young men who had been initiated that evening, saying they became members of a world-wide order. He did not think total abstinence would revolutionise the world, but it would better equip people to fight disease and sin. It had a high moral standard. (Applause.)

NEW MELBOURNE CITY COUNCIL QUARRY.

OPENED AT PRESTON. SUPPLY FOR 40 YEARS.

Councillors and officers of the Melbourne City Council on May 23 visited Preston to inspect the new municipal quarry and stone-crushing plant. The Lord Mayor (Sir William Hutton) pulled the lever which set in motion the electrically driven machinery.

The site of the quarry and plant, comprising 82 acres, was purchased by the City Council for approximately £5,000 in 1924. Additional costs, including £8,276 for the cost of buildings, crusher house, bins, and other structures, £8,708 for the stone-crushing plant, and £2,000, representing the council's share of the cost of construction of Newland's road, the approaching thoroughfare, brought the total expenditure on the quarry to £23,553.

BLIND CONCERT AT NORTH-COTE.

On Tuesday evening, June 15, for the first time for many years, the famous orchestra and concert party of blind artists, including the blind children from the Royal Victorian Institute for the Blind, St. Kilda road, will give a concert at the Clifton Hill Hotel.

Last month these blind children and adults visited Ballarat for the first time. Over 4000 people attended the concert in the Ballarat Coliseum.

Neither this company of all blind artists nor the Royal Victorian Institute for the Blind, St. Kilda road, is in any way connected with the company of blind and sighted artists who regularly give concerts in Northcote and other parts of the city.

It spends £16,000 per annum on education, recreation, and instruction of professional training, towards which the Government gives a subsidy of £1,800 per annum. It may be of interest to citizens to know that the institute gives more money to its blind people than any similar institute in the world.

LICENSING PROSECUTIONS.

At Northcote police court on Monday, before Mr. A. Kelley, P.M., Isabella Jane O'Connor was charged that being the licensee of the Albion Hotel, on March 12 persons were found on her licensed premises during prohibited hours. There was a search of the premises and a quantity of liquor was found during prohibited hours, and a third charge of having had her bar door open during prohibited hours.

She pleaded not guilty to all charges. Geo. Rooney, Maribyrnong road, Ascot Vale, was charged with having been found on the premises of the Albion Hotel during prohibited hours, and a quantity of liquor on March 12. William Jones, Gladstone Avenue, Northcote, was charged with having been found on licensed premises during prohibited hours on March 12.

Senior-constable Jacobs, of Northcote, said that he knew the defendant at 6.24 p.m. on March 12 he went to the hotel. He went to a door in Charles street, and Const. Golding went to a door in the rear. As witness knocked at one door another door in Charles street was opened and a man came out. On seeing witness the man spoke to someone inside, who then tried to close the door. Witness entered and the licensee's son, who was charged with the offence, followed and saw the bar door open. Defendant's son slammed it.

He turned and saw the man, who gave wrong addresses. Witness said to the licensee: "Romey has two bottles of beer." The licensee said: "Yes, he got them before 6 p.m." Something was said about Romey staying the night, but no entry had been made in the concrete book.

Cross-examined—Witness was sure the bar door was open. He could see the concrete book. On seeing witness Romey gave his proper address, and said he had bought two bottles of beer before 6 p.m.; also that he had gone to the bar. Two other men gave wrong addresses. Witness said to the licensee: "Romey has two bottles of beer." The licensee said: "Yes, he got them before 6 p.m." Something was said about Romey staying the night, but no entry had been made in the concrete book.

Re-examined—There were seven men in the hotel altogether, three of whom got into the bar. Two others gave wrong names.

Const. G. R. Gilding said he was at the Charles street door of the hotel when the licensee's son came out. He caught Romey, who had two bottles of beer.

George Henry Romey said he had bought two bottles of beer at the hotel at 5.30 p.m. He had also had tea at the hotel.

Beholdan O'Connor, son of the licensee, when standing at the private entrance to the hotel in Charles street, saw the man, who was charged with the offence, come out. Three men pushed their way in and asked for liquor. He refused to give it to them. The Constable said that the licensee had had two bottles of beer to Romey at about 5.40 p.m.

The licensee's son said Jones came and told her he wanted tea at the hotel that night.

The licensee was fined £5 for having most fastidiously got into the bar, and £3 for persons being found on her premises. The charge of carrying away liquor was withdrawn. Romey was fined 20/- on each charge, and Jones was fined 20/-.

Northcote and Preston Electric Trams.

EXTENSION OF LOOPS. QUESTION OF PROVIDING BETTER SERVICE.

At the meeting of the Northcote City Council on Monday night a letter was received from the Melbourne and Metropolitan Board of Works stating that loops from West Preston lines were being extended. The work on the east Preston section was almost completed, but owing to non-delivery of material, there had been an unavoidable delay in advancing this work to 12 stages. It would be reduced in the service.

There was not sufficient passenger movement on either the West or East Preston lines at present to justify an improvement in the service. With five minutes' extra service suggested on each section—there would be a 2 1/2 minutes' service to town—a service in excess of that provided on any other line, even the peak loads, with the exception of High street, Malvern, which had a peak load service of 2 1/2 minutes for a short period, and which was being closely studied. The average earnings on the West Preston section for the period of six months to April 24 were 15d per mile, which was below operating expenses, without an allowance for statutory obligations or carrying charges. At one time there was a duplication of service in Lygon street and St. George's road, and consideration was now being given to abolishing West Preston cars at Miller street. A transfer would be made available for passengers desiring to complete their journey through to the city when the trams were short shunted at Miller street.

The matter was referred to the committee of the council for consideration.

Village Constable (jokingly)—"Now Paddy, where would you be if the prison had its dues?" Paddy (jokingly)—"Riding alone."

AN EJECTMENT ORDER.

Should it be removed?

Ralph John St. Paul sought an ejectment order against E. Lees in respect to premises at 286 High street, Northcote.

Mr. S. R. Roe appeared for Lees. Joseph Fieldman, law clerk, produced a copy of a complaint served on defendant. He read the notice at the abode of the defendant, and gave it to one of his daughters.

Mr. St. Paul did not try to serve the notice on Lees, because he knew he would not be able to serve it. He had tried to serve a notice previously, and Lees had slammed the door in his face and had said: "I don't want to see you." Witness did not make a row.

Ralph John St. Paul produced a contract for a monthly tenancy between himself and Lees; also a contract of sale of the property to a Mrs. Tye.

To Mr. Roe—He had agreed to purchase certain fittings.

With the notice increase during the last year or so in the number of telephone stations operating within the broadcast range of wavelengths (300-500 metres) in this country and abroad, the necessity for a higher standard of selectivity in radio apparatus has become increasingly apparent.

The Super-Heterodyne Receiver, by reason of its great selectivity, is an important step in the right direction, and will do much to relieve the difficulty of reception due to the present congested condition of the ether.

The Igranite Super-Heterodyne Receiver outfit is the result of intensive research and experiment, extending over a considerable period. The special oscillator and intermediate frequency coupling units contained in this outfit represent a high standard of perfection in design. After comparative tests with various methods of coupling for the intermediate frequency amplifier, a novel form of reactance-capacity coupling unit has been developed which possesses the extremely desirable feature of inherent stability, thus ensuring perfect clarity of reception.

These coupling components which we have named "Self-stabilising Reactance Units," are particularly efficient in that by their use the deliberate introduction of any reactance in the circuit, such as by potentiometer control, need not result in any loss of selectivity of the intermediate amplifier to oscillate is cut off at its source.

The special method of securing stability in these units, by stabilising reactance units enables a far higher degree of amplification to be obtained than would otherwise be possible. If any reactance is introduced, it must be specially introduced and this may be effected by means of a variable capacitor.

The Igranite Super-Heterodyne Receiver outfit is a distinct advance on frame aerials of more usual design, which possess the disadvantage of picking up signals from other stations, and to which they are actually tuned, but also those transmitted on the wavelength at which the intermediate amplifier operates.

The design of the various components and accessories contained in the Igranite outfit is such that the actual constructional work is rendered extremely easy, and may be accomplished by those possessing a very little skill, with the aid of a few simple tools.

Suitable for Use with Frame Aerial or Open Aerial. Super-heterodyne receivers constructed from outfits according to the Igranite design may be used with either a frame aerial or an open aerial, and in either case the aerial may be directly coupled to the receiver, or locally coupled tuning circuits may be employed, in which case there is a very little risk of causing interference with neighboring receivers by radiation from the aerial.

A patent frame aerial is provided with a special counter-winding which eliminates interference from signals transmitted on wavelengths approximating that of the intermediate frequency amplifier. The Igranite frame aerial is a distinct advance on frame aerials of more usual design, which possess the disadvantage of picking up signals from other stations, and to which they are actually tuned, but also those transmitted on the wavelength at which the intermediate amplifier operates.

The design of the various components and accessories contained in the Igranite outfit is such that the actual constructional work is rendered extremely easy, and may be accomplished by those possessing a very little skill, with the aid of a few simple tools.

Wide Wavelength Range and Extreme Flexibility. An exceptionally valuable feature of this outfit is that a super-heterodyne receiver of this type can be used with a flexible in use, and not only is it possible to obtain highly efficient reception within the broadcast band of wavelengths, but stations operating on wavelengths up to more than 4,000 metres may also be received. This feature is very rarely found in Super-heterodyne Receivers, and by the use of only three oscillator units it is possible to cover a range of wavelengths which includes the majority of the world's broadcasting stations.

The effective wavelength ranges of the three oscillator units are set out in the latter part of this article, and it must be pointed out that these ranges allow of two distinct tuning points, one above and one below the minimum and maximum wavelengths covered by each unit, these points corresponding to heterodyne frequencies either greater or less than the frequency of the received signal. If only one tuning point is allowed on the minimum and maximum wavelengths covered by each unit, these points, when specified, The No. 1 oscillator unit, which enables reception to be effected within a wavelength range of 215 to 625 metres approximately, is supplied as standard with the Super-heterodyne Receiver Outfit, but oscillator unit No. 2 or No. 3 can be supplied in place of No. 1, if specially ordered. The two oscillator units which are not contained in the outfit may be obtained separately, but if they are ordered at any time subsequent to the purchase of the outfit, it is necessary to quote the serial number which appears on the license plate of the receiver for which the units are required.

The design of the various components and accessories contained in the Igranite outfit is such that the actual constructional work is rendered extremely easy, and may be accomplished by those possessing a very little skill, with the aid of a few simple tools.

Marvels of Wireless

GRID BIAS.

With the introduction of the modern power amplifying valve, which tends to consume more and more "B" battery current unless properly controlled, the question of educating "B" batteries, becomes a matter of extreme importance.

The application of the correct negative bias voltage to the grid of a low frequency amplifying valve has such an important effect on the life of the "B" battery, and the quality and tone of the reception that the subject is well worth a little study, and it is surprising that the matter has not received more consideration in the "local radio press. In fact, in many cases, we have noticed in circuit diagrams and constructional articles that no mention is made of a "C" battery whatsoever.

In order to show clearly the effect of grid bias voltage on the plate current, it will not be out of place to say something here about the theory of the valve.

Put in the simplest possible terms, the valve simply controls the flow of current from the "B" battery, and we shall explain in the simplest possible manner what actually takes place.

The filament when heated has the property of throwing off electrons which have a negative electrical charge, and are therefore attracted to the positively charged plate. A glance at the circuit will show that the plate of an amplifying valve is connected to the positive side of the "B" battery, and that one of the leads from the filament is connected to the negative side of the same battery.

The passage of the electrons from the filament to the plate allows current to flow from the "B" battery in an opposite direction, i.e., the current leaves the "B" battery by way of the positive terminal, and flows to the plate thence by means of the electron stream across the intervening space to the filament, and back through the filament lead to the negative terminal of the "B" battery.

The grid, which is interposed between the plate and the filament, has complete control of the flow of electrons, and consequently of the flow of current from the "B" battery. If we only had a filament and plate in a valve, the flow would be constant. The grid controls the electrons in the same way that the plate does. The incoming signals place a small positive or negative voltage on the grid in accordance with the transmitted voice or music. A positive charge on the grid will help the electron stream along by overcoming the resistance offered to it by the tube and the filament. When the grid turns negative on account of a negative signal, it at once repels the electrons and acts as an effective bar to their passage, thus shutting off the flow and throwing the current.

When a low frequency power amplifying valve is used, and a high voltage is applied to the plate, the negative potential which the grid normally receives from the "A" battery is not sufficient to overcome the positive attraction which the plate has for the electrons, and consequently an excessive amount of current is allowed to flow from the "B" battery, resulting in short life and rapid deterioration of this expensive equipment.

By the interposition of a "C" or Grid Bias Battery in the lead from the negative terminal of the "A" battery to the "B" Secondary leads of the inter-valve transformers, the negative potential on the grid can be built up to an appropriate value, thus limiting the flow of electrons to the plate.

Each type of valve manufactured by Philips is now accompanied by a leaflet which gives details of the correct grid bias voltage to apply for various plate voltages, and to ensure an efficient and economical working of a receiver, the manufacturer's instruction must be strictly adhered to in this respect.

WIRELESS ON TRAINS.

Experiments have recently been made with a view to demonstrating whether an efficient wireless service is practicable on moving trains.

In one case a non-stop express was fitted with twenty pairs of headphones, and also with loud-speakers, connected with a receiving set on the train.

Where there were hills between the train and the transmitting station the signals occasionally faded appreciably. All hills did not have this effect, however; it was those rich in mineral deposits, and thus exercising a magnetic influence, which interfered with reception.

There was no fading when the express passed under bridges, but in the centre of a tunnel reception became very difficult. Altering the tuning, however, seemed to have a good effect in some cases.

ROSE CULTURE IN NORTHCOTE

VARIETIES THAT HAVE PROVED SUITABLE.

By J. W. Firth, hon. secretary Northcote Horticultural Society, and acting secretary National Rose Society of Victoria.

NO. II.

A few remarks generally before giving a list of names of varieties may be made on rose growing. Some of the varieties of rose culture are that a judicious choice of varieties provides for flowers from October to the end of May. There are roses suitable for hot, cold, wet or dry weather. At holiday time the rose garden can be kept without loss of form and water.

No yearly replanting is necessary, although the more one does to ensure success the better. The rose is almost so exacting as many other plants, such as dahlias, chrysanthemums, etc. The main flowering periods are in spring, summer and autumn, each season producing a definite crop of blooms. To ensure a good autumn crop, the roses should be planted in a sunny, but do not prune with anything like the severity of winter pruning. The roses should be planted in Northcote. The first principle is to prepare the rose beds thoroughly. It pays to do so.

Now for the choice of varieties. The common mistake is to go to a nursery or a florist's shop and order the roses that are on the shelves. The roses contained in that 12 are not all suitable for standards. The roses that are on the shelves are not all suitable for standards. The roses that are on the shelves are not all suitable for standards. The roses that are on the shelves are not all suitable for standards.

Prospects of Higher Charges.

"The Victorian Railways," Mr. Sawyer continued, "cannot continue to give the same service at the same charge if a large percentage of the people is going to travel in some other way. It is not the railways that are the cause of the trouble. It is the people who are the cause of the trouble. It is the people who are the cause of the trouble. It is the people who are the cause of the trouble."

THE GUN.

THE NORTHCOTE CLUB.

An all starling programme was provided for the members of the club, and there were large fields in every event. The weather conditions were perfect and, notwithstanding the speed of the wind, some good performances were accomplished. A. Trimm, of Kangaroo Grounds, was in first class form, and out together a break of 12. The initial swoopstakes went four rounds, when a division was made by Trimm, Kemp and Morada. The second swoopstakes was shared after two rounds by Trimm and Morada. The next event was the fifth competition for a division. Four were to be selected twice before becoming the property of a shooter. On two occasions "Crom" (A. F. Cook, of Braburn) has been runner-up, being defeated each time in the shoot off. But for fortune attended his efforts on Saturday, and the contest revolved itself into a duel between him and "Suroite." Those two divided the attached swoop. "Crom" secured the log in the 10th round, "Suroite" killing nine out of ten. Then followed H. E. Spry and G. Guest with seven apiece, in the circumstances, "Crom" was very popular. There were 41 nominations for a £10 starting handicap. It produced some keen marksmanship, and the final prize money was taken out by Trimm, "Suroite" and Geo. Doane. A swoopstakes was divided by Hooker, and "Suroite," and another by Simmons, and "Suroite," a third by "Suroite," Hooker and Simmons, and the final by Trimm and Simmons.

Health Lecture at Preston.

On Monday night at Preston Town Hall, under the auspices of the Preston City Council and the Health Association of Australia, Dr. Edith Barrett gave a health lecture to a good attendance. The subjects dealt with proved most interesting and educational, and films were shown to clearly demonstrate the points which Dr. Barrett wished to drive home. The subjects dealt with were—"The Rat Menace," "Saving the Eyes of Youth," "Helping the Dent to Honor," "Conquering Diphtheria," and others.

WRONG AGAIN.

George Wursel was not a sympathizer with modern education. To be quite frank, he did not believe in it at all. He had never been "teased," he said, and had got along all right, and therefore education was unnecessary. However, there came a day when George was not quite so confident. He had bought a quantity of cabbages from the local dealer, and found, on consulting a ready reckoner, that he had been done. On the following day he descended upon the dealer, and laid the ready reckoner and his complaint before him.

FUTURE OF BUSES.

STATE CONTROL URGED.

AMERICAN EXPERT'S VIEW.

"I was particularly surprised that such irresponsible competition was allowed, said Mr. W. H. Sawyer, president of the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway Company, of the United States, referring to the competition between trams and trams and private motor buses, at a gathering of railway employees at the Joint Lecture Hall, Mr. Sawyer recently inquired into the affairs of the Electricity Commission. He worked in the United States with the chairman of the Victorian Railways Commission (Mr. Clapp) 20 years ago.

"Motor buses are not going to put trams and steel tyres out of business," said Mr. Sawyer. By that he did not mean to imply that there would not be many more buses in the next five years. More would be built, both for country and city work. America had passed through a light summer period, as well as experiencing, and in the United States also the government controlling bodies had failed, as in Victoria, to enter the field of bus competition quickly enough. The American people now appreciated that they could not get something for nothing. If there was a division of transport facilities prices were naturally higher. American had not such a division of transport facilities as we had. The tramways and railways could not continue to give the same kind of service at the same time of fare as previously. The people realized that the tramways and railways were necessities, and that if they were to be operated independently they would be provided. If the people wanted aeroplanes the tramways and railways would provide them. When the bus services were in full operation several tramways services had been discontinued. The result had been that in almost every case municipalities and the public had begged for the restoration of the tramways and had put the irresponsible "pirate" buses out of action.

State Assistance Discussed.

Mr. Sawyer was asked a number of questions concerning railway matters by members of the audience. In connection with railways development, he said that the lines were being built across the United States from east to west, the Ministry had made huge grants to the railroads, but otherwise did not assist public utilities directly or indirectly. Public utilities had been developed by private capital. The United States at present had about 10 times the railway mileage of Australia, although the area was about the same. The mileage of lines laid down in America in the last 20 years had had no assistance from the Ministry. America did not believe in Government aid of the operation of public utilities. He did not intend that as a criticism of anything done in Australia.

TEMPERANCE ACTIVITIES.

JUNIOR GOOD TEMPLARS.

"The Protector's Pride" Temple of the Junior Good Templars met in the Church of Christ, St. George's road on June 3. There was a good roll up of members, and several new candidates were initiated. New members have been admitted at each weekly meeting this year. Mr. W. H. Rose, of the Victorian Band of Hope Union, gave a short scientific temperance chat, illustrated with models. This was followed by a "magic" writing competition was won by Jack Monte. The meetings of the lodge take place weekly and the officers are:—Superintendent, Mrs. E. Morley; Chief Templar, Robert Booth; Vice-templars, Edna Hancock; P. G. Templar, Ray Slack; chaplain, Violet Whit; secretary, Elsie Madden; treasurer, Don McFarlane; financial secretary, George Cleary; marshal, Will Woodward; deputy marshal, Adeline Hammett.

Marvels of Wireless

BY "LOUD SPEAKER"

The Igranite Square Law Condenser

It is rather a pity that the term 'low loss' has reached a popularity of late years. It is a pity because it is a term which is used in a sense which is not only misleading but also entirely untrue. The Igranite Square Law Condenser is a condenser which is built upon the square law principle, and it is a condenser which is built upon the square law principle, and it is a condenser which is built upon the square law principle.

TO THOSE ABOUT TO BUILD A HOME.
 YOU WILL BE WISE TO ASK THESE QUESTIONS:—
 What will be the first cost of my home?
 What will be the cost of insurance spread over 20 years?
 What will be the cost of painting spread over 20 years?
 What will be the cost of upkeep spread over 20 years?
 If I build in Timber, will my home be free from Rot and White Ants?
 Or, will I build with materials that have stood for centuries?
 We ask yourselves these questions, and we are sure you will decide to let.

RECHABITE JUBILEE FOR THE LADIES

MORE WINNING ESSAYS.
 The following are the three winning essays on "Why I Intend to Abstain from Intoxicating Liquors" in the junior section:—
 1.—First Grade 6, Junior, by Margaret Emily Chisholm, Hazel Dell, 24 Darnley street, Northcote (Prince of Wales Park School).
 2.—The results of intoxicating liquors on men and women.
 3.—My wish for happiness in life.
 4.—The example I wish to set.
 Quote America as prohibition country.
 If all parents became intoxicated there would be very little happiness in life. The children of parents who take intoxicating liquors are often uncared for; they sometimes die through want of warm clothes and nutritious food. Parents are often poverty-stricken, and are not able to educate their children.
 What a pleasure it is for a man to hurry home to his wife and children instead of staggering home intoxicated. What a pleasure to see his children playing joyfully around him.
 If I abstain from all liquors, I will be setting a good example to others. Perhaps some day I may bring my business to a family by changing a man or woman that takes intoxicating liquors into a good, steady living man or woman.
 The Americans do not drink liquors like we do. They are liked by other countries. If the Americans drank liquors they would be liked much more by other people and countries. Although beer and other liquors employ thousands of men, it is a curse to any country.

Second Junior Grade 6, by Audrey Johnston, Grade 6 (Wales street, Northcote).
 Liquors that are alcoholic are of no use to human beings, as far as a drink is concerned. Strong drink is bad for the health of growing youth, as well as being bad for the mental powers of the brain. When I am older I intend to be an education teacher. For this situation a person would need to be up in school and figures. This is the reason why I am going to avoid the temptation of vile strong drink, which has caused so many honest lives to go down in character and name. Many people who have been true, honest, and clean, have grown up into evil, dishonest, and slovenly people. This is caused mainly by strong drink and smoking. A man who gets drunk and then goes to church is not a good citizen, although many do this. I intend to grow up into a manhood being very proud to say that I had abstained from all alcoholic liquors. The saying is "Wine in, wit out," which means when a person continually drinks intoxicating beverages he is using up all the brains he has, and he is foolish. Nearly all the goals and asylums would be empty but for the drunkenness of many foolish people.

Third, Junior, Grade VI, (Wales Street School, Croxton).
 1.—What it is. 2.—Harm to the body. 3.—Occurrences out of doors.
 An intoxicating liquor is a strong drink containing alcohol.
 It affects the body, the mind, the health, and the system. The acid in the alcohol often makes a drinker ill. Also it turns the blood bad, which is caused by the alcohol mixing with the blood. The alcohol, then, causes the heart and the stomach to weaken. The alcohol gives a man miscontrol of his mind, and he acts foolishly. Alcohol is used to a person sometimes.
 It is called the motorist who drink often cause disasters, which leads them to have their licenses taken from them. They also lose their jobs, and are even put in prison; therefore I intend to be a teetotaler all through my life.

RE-DISTRIBUTION OF WARDS MOOTED IN NORTHCOTE.

SOME ANOMALOUS FIGURES.
 At the last meeting of the Northcote City Council, during the discussion of ordinary business, Cr. P. H. Mayer moved that the question of the proposed redistribution of wards be referred to the committee of the Council. He said that the voters on the roll were—Central 911, East 1,294, South 1,451, North 2,487, West 2,782. On these figures one voter in the Central Ward had as much voting power as 2 2/3 voters in the North. One vote in the Central ward was equivalent to three votes in the West; whilst one East Ward vote was equal to two votes in the North. Two votes in the South were equal to three votes in the West. The areas of the two wards north of Separation street—the North and the West (totalled 1,930 acres, and had six representatives, whilst the other three wards, the South, East, and Central had 920 acres and nine representatives. So to every acre in the Central Ward there were 3 1/2 acres in the West Ward, and 5 1/3 acres in the North Ward. The West Ward was greater than any two of the East, South and Central Wards, and almost as large as the three. The North Ward was larger than the East, Central and South Wards, with 250 acres to spare more than enough for another Central Ward. The areas of the various wards in acres were—North 1,180, West 750, Central 220, East 245, South 282. The number of houses in the various wards were—North 1,822, East 1,250, Central 915, West 2,825, North 2,535. So that there were more houses in the West Ward than in the Central and East Wards and 630 to spare, and more than in the South and Central Wards put together. There were more houses in the North Ward than in the Central and East put together.
 Valuation. The valuations of the various wards were—South, £73,147; East, £57,877; Central, £16,914; West, £12,154; North, £100,457. Thus the West Ward valuation was equal to the valuation of the East and Central put together, and about equal to the South plus the Central. The North Ward valuation was about equal to the South and East Wards united.
 Population. The population of the various wards in the North Ward, 7,980; East, 4,287; Central, 2,985; West, 10,886; and North, 10,787. The populations of the North and West Wards were about equal, and each was nearly equivalent to the population of the South plus the Central.
 Cr. Mayer, continuing, said that the present wards were constituted in 1903, May 20, 1900—about 30 years ago—and since then there had been no alteration. To obtain a result in relation to the Local Government act provided that a referendum must be held. Cr. Mayer continued that taking High Street as the dividing line, the North-South basis, the area east of that was approximately 1,785 acres, and west 1,100 acres, so there was not much hope to secure an equality of area in each of any five new wards. He had three propositions to put before the committee.
 Cr. Boarder seconded.
 Cr. Hayes supported Cr. Mayer's resolution. In 1903 the matter had been talked about. He did not know if it was extraordinary business, but thought it should go to committee.
 Cr. Turner said he was not in favor of the proposal unless the committee would also consider the advisability of abolishing the ward system altogether. The matter was referred to the committee of the council.

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

MAINTENANCE ORDER MADE.
 At Northcote police court on Monday, before Messrs. J. Satch (chairman), J. Cohen, H. Evans and C. T. Scott, J.P., Violet May Graham sued her husband, James Graham, for maintenance for herself and her two children.
 Woman's Unhappy Life.
 Mrs. Graham said she married defendant in May, 1922, at Geelong. She had had disagreements with her husband owing to his drinking habits. When he came home drunk he used to hit and kick her. He had also threatened to cut her throat and also her child's throat. She heard complaints of her husband visiting a woman in Bellarine street, Geelong, and left her husband on February 18 last. She heard that her husband had been visiting the place. On February 18 she watched and saw him leave the place. She then left the home, as she was frightened that he would beat her. Her husband had been a grocer's assistant, a laborer and a baker's carrier, his best wages being £12 6 a week. It was in October last that she last got money from him. Since she had left him she had had to earn her own living.
 To the Bench, defendant had made an effort to send her any money since she had left him.
 Cross-examined. When she left she did not indicate where she was going. She had told her husband that, owing to his excessive drinking and visiting another woman, she would leave him. He said: "Do your worst and so." She had herself visited this woman three times before she found out what sort of a woman she was. Before her first child was born her husband had abandoned her. He had written to her three times since she had left him, and had asked her to go back. She would not go back, as she was terrified. Once when defendant came to Melbourne with his father she had returned to tell him where she was living or where the children were.
 HURON LADY, Ballantyne street, Thornbury, brother of complainant, said defendant came to his house with his mother and father, and said they wanted his sister to go back with them. Defendant said if she would go back to him he would not strike her again. Witness said: "Apparently you have hit her several times." Defendant said: "Yes, but I was drunk."
 "Hit Her, But Was Drunk."
 James Graham, the defendant, said his wife left him on March 9 last. He did not know where his wife was living or where the two children were. He had come to see her brother at Thornbury, with a view of getting his wife to go home. He had denied striking his wife, and said there would be no more trouble, assuming ever the HURON woman. He had lived in Katharine street, Geelong, with his father and mother in 1915. His wife had asked complainant that he struck her. His wife came back to him he would treat her kindly.
 Cross-examined. He had never threatened to do her harm. Since March 10 he had been away for five weeks in Melbourne looking for work. He was not with Mrs. Bisque, and did not see her at all during that time. He knew his wife's collectors in Melbourne. He denied that he visited Mrs. Bisque the day his wife left him. William Edward Graham, night-clubman at Geelong, said defendant was his son. His son and wife lived at his place for nine months in 1925. He had not heard any complaints about ill treatment.
 Cross-examined. He had seen his son the worse for drink once or twice. An order was made that defendant pay his wife 20s. per week and find a surety of £20 forthwith. In the second case the bench decided it had no jurisdiction. £27 7/6 costs were allowed.
