THE COBBERS' CLUB

Dear Cobbers—I have received only one answer to the Limerick so far, and am very disappointed. Please see in your enquiries this week the letters without your names. Please don't forget to put your names on every sheet of your contributions. How many Cobbers want to Henley? Did you see the fireworks at night? Well Cobbers, the Pets send their love and don't forget the Limerick.

LOVE FROM UNCLE PHIL.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

Happy birthdays to Thelma Maes (Oct. 29), Freddie Barker (Oct. 30), Annie Gilbert (Nov. 1), Stanley Pike (Nov. 2), Daphne King (Nov. 3), and Ron Stone and Joan Shiels (Nov. 4) are the wishes of all the Cobbers, Uncle Phil and the Pets.

WINGS OF FANCY.

(Instalment 4—By "Tinkle Toes.") From the leaping, roaring flames, Gasses white and green and red, Passion which the burning tames, Fires by living forces fed. Universe intangible! Spirit springs invisible. In the dancing tongues of light Dwells the Spirit of all life; Throbbing strength of all things light. Swirling in the surging strife. Deeper plunge we, fluting than Secrets which we Fairies share, With the childlike moods of men, Who unborn are burning there.

Bathing in eternal fire, Spirit of the things to be; Hope and Faith and High Desire. God and life's eternity. Never ending life of man, Never changing life of God. Things that are which ne'er began, Paths no human feet have trod. I'll not finish that song yet, but will sing you more later. It hides many a precious secret, and when we are boys and girls we all love a secret which we love to think is our very own, don't we?

You see, dear Cobbers, we Fire Fairies believe everything came through fire, and that the Great Consuming Fire contained everything that is and can be. The Fire had the secret virtue or power of cooling, and it is through that cooling that all that human senses can understand came into the existences we know. That is to say, that everything existed in the Fire as gas and spirit until there began the cooling which began the things solid; so out of gas all things came, and that is the Fire Fairy's great creative secret. Before our story ends I'll tell you in one chapter about Fire worshippers, and as the story goes on you will begin to know the real secret I am going to reveal.

You may be beginning to wonder still more why this chapter is headed "The Eternal Now." It is because it has so much about the Fire that never goes out, the Fire from which you and I and everything else in this and other worlds came, so you see we had to begin at the beginning, which never was, but which always is and which ever will be. The sun as you all know never goes out, and it doesn't know the darkness as we know it. It is therefore the fiery, ever burning sun that tells us of the eternity of things, and that is why another chapter you will learn of ancient and modern Sun worshippers whom the naughty Fairies have misled.

OUR MAIL BAG.

20 Dally St., Northcote. Dear Uncle Phil—Would you please send me as a member of the Cobbers' and Birthday Clubs, a copy of Joseph's school, and am in the sixth grade. I had a pet bunny named Mick, but it died. I have a pet horse. Would you please give me a name for it. I shall write again. With love to the pets. Molly O'Connor.

Welcome, Molly. Please tell me some more about your horse and I'll think of a name for it. Do you ride? I'm sorry your bunny died. Was he a white one? Love from the Pets.

7 Hoptoun Rd., Northcote. Dear Uncle Phil—We have a dog and cat and a rabbit. Their names are Bert and Charlie, and the dog's name is Lamah. I go to Helen St. school, Northcote. (GOOD.) Arthur Ross.

Welcome, Arthur. What a lot of pets you have! What sort of a dog is Lamah? Can he do any tricks? Jacko says he ought to be able to. Write again soon.

5 Kane St., W. Preston. Dear Uncle Phil—I am very glad to hear the tortoise is back again. Wasn't it lucky Jacko noticed it when he did? I have enclosed my 100 marks for the many prize marks. I guess Tortoise are very naughty dogs, but very faithful. I will send you 2/6.

116 Separation St., Northcote. Dear Uncle Phil—it is a long time since I wrote to you. I am glad the Tortoise has come back. Of course it does not like the cold weather. I am enclosing my cuttings, which amount to 100 marks. I think that I would like the 2/6, as I want to save up for a bike. With love to you and the pets. Billie Webb.

Will you call in for the price, Billie. Is this your first visit? The Tortoise is doing famously now. We are all so happy on these lovely sunny days. Cheerio.

Mary Worfolk—It won't take so long, Mary. Send me some things and I'll print them when I've space. Keep on trying. No one gets anywhere without it. Ron Stone—Did you receive a packet of stamps? If so they belong to Harry Scholz and were to be exchanged. Please let me know about them.

Who sent in the joke about "Boot Callah"? Please send your name and I will print it. Les. Stubb—I shall be pleased to receive your contributions each week. They are most interesting.

Be so sure in a recipe for biscuits, Snowflakes don't flower in January in Australia, although they do in England.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

AN OLD SONG OF SPRING.

My whole is a dangerous animal. Answer—Serpent. H. Scholz. (GOOD.)

OUR WONDER CORNER. The Why, What, Where, When and How of Things. Why do we see stars when the eye receives a blow? I suppose every one of you has, at some time or other, seen stars when actually there were no stars to be seen in the sky. And I have no doubt that it occurred when Johnny Basham got in a "lucky blow."

Now why was it you saw these stars? Well, our body is full of nerves, and each one has a special duty to perform. There are nerves for each of our senses, and it is their duty to give a sensation if they are in any way excited. If the eye nerves are in any way excited they must give some sensation, and that has to be light. Thus when we receive a blow on the eye, the eye nerves are at once affected, and we receive a sensation of light. It is only a momentary flash, so we see "stars." And now you will see that it is not such an amazing thing that we can see stars in the daytime.

Hard to Do—It was a death-bed film scene, but the producer was not satisfied with the hero's acting. "Come on," he cried, "put more life into your dying." The Law Was Smarter—A man called on a lawyer and said "What can I do to a boy who threw a stone and broke one of my windows?" "Ask his father to pay for the damage," replied the lawyer. "The man says you will pay me 4/-," said the man, "because it was your son that did it." "Certainly," replied the lawyer, "and as you owe me 6/8 for my fee for the advice you have just asked, if you give me 2/8 we shall be square." Aubrey Singleton.

The lesson was arithmetic, and the teacher was looking extremely worried. So far every boy had answered wrongly. Desperately the teacher gazed around and suddenly pointed to a boy in the far corner, who who seemed to be paying more attention than the others. "Now, Johnny," she said, "will five go into one?" "Oh yes, teacher," replied Johnny promptly. The teacher stamped her foot, and her face flushed with annoyance. "Nonsense, you stupid boy," she exclaimed. "What number you say that five will go into one?" "Well, I put five toes into one stocking every morning, teacher," retorted Johnny. (GOOD.) Violet Whipp.

Giles—"Fine day today, Jarga. Spring in the air." Jarg, "Eh? I said 'Spring in the air today.'" "Eh?" "Spring in the air." "Why should I? Why should I?" (GOOD.) Beryl Lomas.

The Fat in the Fire—Small Boy: "Why, dad, this is real roast beef." Father: "Of course it is. What did you expect?" Small Boy: "Well, you said you were going to bring an old muttonhead home for dinner." (Collapse of distinguished guest.) (GOOD.) A. Angus.

A teacher was trying to impress upon his class that where coal is found iron also is discovered. By pointing out several places where such is the case, he hoped he had made his point clear. The following week he said to one of the brightest youths: "What is the coal near Cardiff; what else shall I find?" "Smoke, sir," promptly replied Jones. (GOOD.) Myra Whipp.

"Daddy," said the small boy, "who put the statue under the kitchen sink?" "Sil!" said his father, "that's the plumber." (GOOD.) D. Bensley.

Elsie (aged five): "I do hope some Dutchman will marry me when I grow up." Aunt Mary: "Why dear?" Elsie: "Because I want to be a duchess." (GOOD.) Kitty Keen.

A Scotchman was having his dinner when a fly fell into the basin of cream. After a second it crawled out to the side of the basin, where it stayed to wipe the cream from its wings. The Scotchman, watching him, saw it was about to fly away, caught it with his fingers and said: "Noo, not yet, my mannie; I will lick yer legs first." Alan Thomson.

Fresh—I was in a grocer's shop last Saturday when a man entered, looking very angry. "I say," he shouted, shaking his fist at the man behind the counter, "you sold my wife some eggs yesterday." "Yes," replied the grocer, "I believe I did." "And you told her they were fresh." "Yes, I did. I bought them fresh from Joe Brown." "I don't believe it," snorted the man. "Joe Brown is an honest man." The grocer shrugged his shoulders expressively. "Well, Joe said they were all right. He came in here with his basket full of them and exchanged them for a box of biscuits." "When was that?" "Oh, about five months ago!" replied the grocer. (GOOD.) Irene Whipp.

His Opportunity—A gentleman was travelling on a train when it suddenly pulled up at a station. Pushing his head out he shouted to the guard: "Shall I have time to get a drink?" "Yes, sir," answered the official. "Can you give me a guarantee that the train won't start?" "I'll guarantee the other." "Well, I'll take one with you," was the smiling rejoinder. (GOOD.) Jack Webb.

NEW LIMERICK. Make up the last line to rhyme with the first two, and send it in to Uncle Phil. Prize, 2/6. Entries to be in by November 4; winner announced on November 11. Oh, always be very cheery, And never be so weary That you sink in a chair And want to stay there.

EXCHANGE NOTICES. I will give any of the following brands: Acme, Bryant and May's, Iris, Three Stars, Union Jack, or Three Castles, for Three Pipes (Japanese or Chinese), Platypus, Three Lancers (Swedish), Globe Trotter (Australia). Len Fulton.
