Detonators Stolen

DANGER TO CHILDREN
Warning To Parents

During the week-end a large quantity of detonators were stolen from the magazine at the Northcote Brick Works, and it is suspected that the thieves were children. The theft is considered to be very serious in view of the grave danger involved. Already two children have suffered from the loss of fingers to their right hands, and parents should take note.

Widely Distributed Enquiries by the police have led to the belief that the detonators have been distributed amongst a large number of children living in the vicinity, and in view of the grave risk attached to handling them, parents are asked to warn their children for the benefit of those who do not know what a detonator is, the following description will be helpful: A copper tube, about an inch to an inch and a quarter in length, and about a quarter of an inch in diameter, closed at one end and seemingly empty.

Do Not Poke
Residents should not poke anything into the cylinder, for the slightest touch will cause the ejection of a minute quantity of mercury (with which the tube is filled) and is liable to explode.

LOST THREE FINGER TIPS

The tips of three fingers of the right hand of Frank Parsons, 8 years, Separation street, Northcote, were blown off on Monday afternoon. It is stated that he was playing with fireworks.

He was admitted to the Children's Hospital suffering severely from shock.

He Was Annoyed

MAN SLAPS BOY'S FACE

Charge Dismissed As Trivial

Holding that the case was trivial Northcote Court dismissed an assault charge preferred against James Hickey, son, of Elm street, Northcote by Percival Valentine Smith, on Tuesday.

Hickey said he would plead guilty to slapping the boy on the cheek.

Smith, who is aged 11 years, living Elm street, Northcote, said: "On Monday 17 I was playing marbles with other boys in Batman Park, near Hickey's fence. Mrs. Hickey asked to go away as we were making a row. I said I was some other boys who were making the row. Mrs. Hickey picked up a marble and I said 'I suppose you'll keep that like you kept my ball.' Then Hickey came out. He said: 'Do you say I hit your ball? I did nothing of the sort.' I said 'You are a liar,' and he slapped my face with his open hand.

Hickey said: "These boys have been annoying me for two years. I am sorry I hit the boy, but he called me a liar."

The P.M. said that the case would be dismissed as trivial. It was quite clear that a man should become liable to the action of boys.

The case was dismissed, but Hickey was ordered to pay £2/5/8 costs.

Old Soldiers

"It's quite true that old soldiers never die, but only fade away," said the Governor (Lord Huntingfield), in proposing the toast of "The Veterans" at the annual dinner tendered by the Federal Government at Victoria Barracks, last Saturday, to veterans of the army and navy who served the Empire before 1886. One of the veterans present was Mr. Andrew Hodge, aged 89 years, of High street, Thornbury, who fought in the Boer War. Each of the veterans received a pipe and tobacco, the gift of the Governor-General (Sir Mac Isaacs).

ANOTHER HOLD-UP AT PRESTON

Butcher Assaulted and Robbed

KICKED ON HEAD BY COWARDLY ASSAILANT

Frederick George Beckensall, butcher, of Plenty road, Preston, was the victim of an armed hold-up on Monday night, when he was robbed of £5/13/9 and kicked below the eye whilst struggling with one of the thieves.

Mr. Beckensall was working late in his shop, which is not far from that of Mr. R. Crawford, who was held up and robbed on Wednesday of last week.

Ordered Meat
"Two men entered the shop," said Mr. Beckensall, "one tall and the other short. The tall man gave an order for meat, and I put it for him. He tendered £1 in payment, and was putting the chopper back on my hook my money bag was snatched from my arm."

Struck With Bludgeon
"I was about to get change when the tall man struck at me with a bludgeon, which cut my cheek and eyebrow. I went for him and threw him with a wristlock. Struggling on the floor to pin him I hit the man on the face several times. Fearing that the second man would attack me whilst I was dealing with the tall man, I called out to Mr. May, a fruit and vegetable shop is next door, but apparently he did not hear me."

Kicked On Face
The smaller man, who appeared to be nervous, made for the door, and then, returning, he kicked me on the face just below the eye. I was dazed, and the tall man jumped to his feet, and with the small man ran from the shop."

Waiting Motor Car.
"I heard a motor car start away, and it appears that there was a third man in it waiting for the thieves."

Police patrols searched the locality without success.

Mr. Beckensall suffered severely from the effects of the kick in the face and from shock.

The District Commissioner (Mr. C. Homer Fraser) presided.

A small fire occurred in a hedge at Gertrude street, Preston, on Wednesday afternoon about 3.45. It is thought to have been caused by children playing with crackers.

An Ejectment Order

HUSBAND v WIFE

Objection to Son at House

Frederick Howard Northcote Rodgers told the Northcote Court on Tuesday that he did not want to eject his wife from a house which he owned, but did not want his son there.

Rodgers asked the Court to grant him an ejectment order against Mrs. Sylvia Rebecca Rodgers, of High street, Northcote South.

Mr. Prendergast (for the complainant) said that there was a maintenance order in existence in favor of the wife against the husband.

"Won't Take Any Notice"
Rodgers said: My wife occupies the property rent free and has done so for some years. When I served the notice of intention to apply to the court for possession of the premises she said "I won't take any notice of it. You can burn it."

I hung it on the dresser when she would not take it.

The P.M. (Mr. Clarke): Did you produce the document?
Rodgers: Yes, I told my wife that if she did not leave the premises and remove the obstruction I would get the police to eject her.

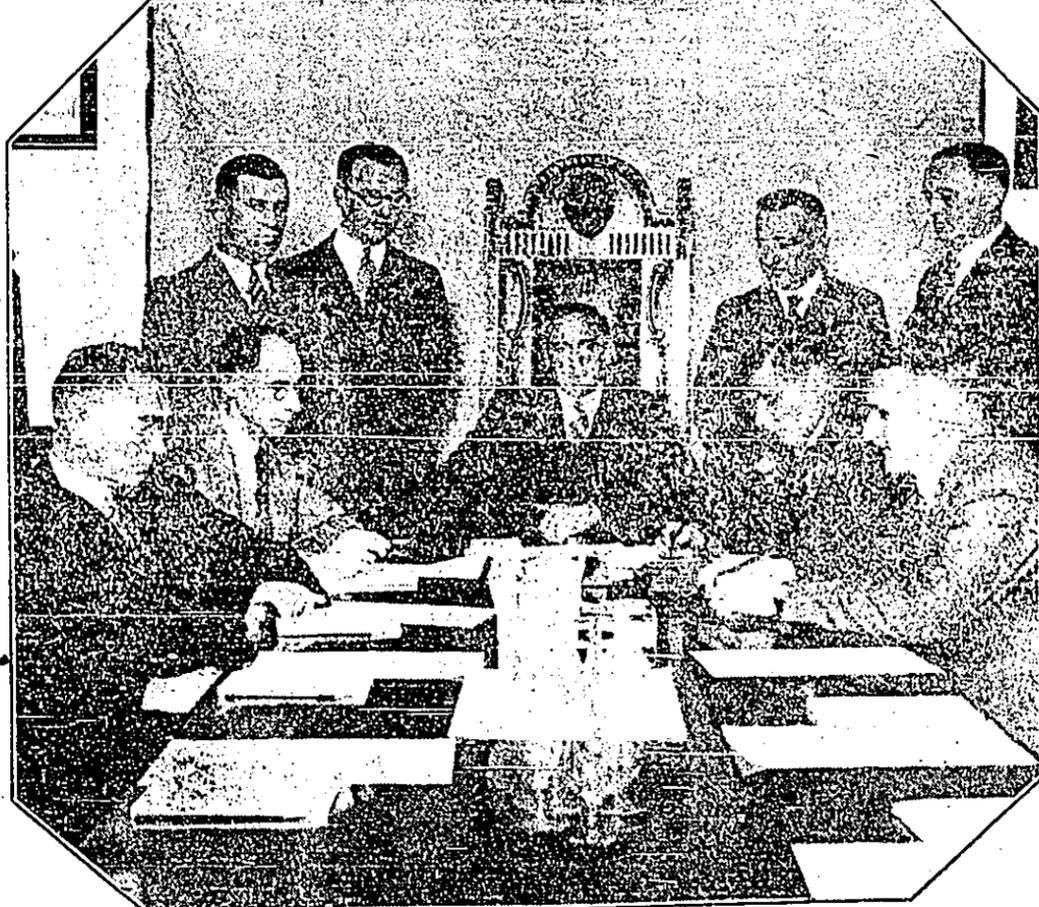

"The Obstruction"
The P.M.: The obstruction, what is that?
Rodgers: My son, I will not allow him in the place.

The P.M.: How long have you been away from the house?
Rodgers: About four years.

The P.M.: How long has she been at the premises?
Rodgers: I built the house 18 years ago and she has lived there ever since.

There was no appearance of Mrs. Rodgers, and the court made the ejectment order asked for.

Mr. Prendergast: The wife will not be ejected if the son leaves.

Northcote Silver Star Band The experiment of enacting the band every Friday evening for a concert in the form of a community singing was freely criticised as an unimpractical idea, but the band has not only held eleven concerts and only made an admission charge of a few cents, and has not only supplied the public with a first class entertainment, but has paid all expenses, purchased new music, repaired several instruments, purchased white coats (monthly), white cap tops, paid for money owing for rent on hall, and secured new boys for the band. If the public continue their support not only will the band be able to carry on the work of playing at the hospitals and for other charities, but will also act as an advertisement for Northcote during the Centenary Celebrations. The band has no collectors and therefore those interested, who wish to make donations, should do so by a Friday evening at the town hall.

The Cobbers' Club

DEAR COBBERS—My word did you see all the honours on Monday night—Kinc's Birthday. We were coming home through Danalong and the Pets counted 35 honours. There were a lot more that had burnt down and the Pets were sorry they did not think of having one of their own. However, Grandma said that one a month was enough. Jack's estimates that there must have been hundreds of them all over Melbourne. Don't forget the Stimulus Competition 'Cobbers, and send in your entries before you forget. The results of the Telegram Competition are announced in the Cobbers and will be placed at the number of entries. See if you can't send in even more Stimulus entries. My word some of the Telegrams were good and the Pets enjoyed reading them all through. Fluffy agreed that they all sounded like "real" ones. I suppose you are all back at school again and settling down to work. The year you are nearly half over now and it will be December and Christmas again before we know where we are. Best Wishes and Greetings from the Pets and, UNCLE PHIL.

A Mean Action

Youths' Poor Sense of Humor

It is a custom among children generally on a public grounds throughout the year to celebrate historic and patriotic events with a spectacular display of fireworks, from which the inevitable bonfire is inseparable. On Monday night last presented an opportunity for the children to again participate in one of their favorite pastimes. The midwinter holidays from school provided the children with ample time to gather material for their bonfires, and on one vacant allotment in Darrobin, on near St. David street, the children of the neighborhood spent days in building up "bonfires" to use their own phrase. This was jealously guarded during the daytime and early evening so that it should not be lit before the appointed time (Monday night) by some of the more mischievously inclined. Late on Friday night, however, two youths about 15 or 16 years of age, who were apparently possessed of a perverse sense of humor, were seen to set fire to the huge pile, which in a few moments was blazing fiercely. Not satisfied with this act of destruction these two mean individuals broke a nearby fire alarm and immediately set a noisy alarm, which was answered by a police patrol. The youths, however, were not required, but their senseless act was not without its near 50 yards distant. One can imagine the disappointment of the boys, who had spent the morning when they found their bonfire had been reduced to ashes. But if the two youths responsible for these foolish-minded actions think they destroyed the bonfire, they are undoubtedly very sadly disillusioned, as with that indomitable spirit common to young Australians, they set about rebuilding their bonfire, and by Monday night had gathered such a quantity of bushes, etc., that His Majesty's birthday was celebrated more enthusiastically by those kiddies on that vacant allotment than anywhere else in the Commonwealth!

HOW THINGS ARE DONE

HOW INSECT PESTS ARE CAUGHT BY LIGHT INSECT pests are very numerous and a great pest in America and all kinds of methods have to be followed to prevent them from destroying the crops entirely. The latest method on a large scale is to spray the crops from aeroplanes, but for the smaller grower other means more easily carried out have to be found, and very effective way of catching the pest is by light. In different parts of the fields a stout pole is sunk in the ground, on top of this a large pan of water is placed with generally a layer of kerosene on top. In the centre of the pan a lighted lamp is stood. At night the insects fly to the light, dash themselves against the kerosene, and fall into the pan, where they sink very soon and come to an end.

Another Century by Northcote Sandringham's Second Consecutive Defeat

A CONGESTED GAME OF FLUCTUATING FORTUNES (By "Rover") On Saturday for the first time since 1931 Northcote were able to defeat Sandringham at Hampton. After making a slow beginning they adapted themselves to the circumstances and gradually overpowered the home side. The latter could not withstand the constant pressure of their rivals, whose resourceful tactics and methodical attacks proved effective in disposing of the Seasideers.

THE TEAMS Northcote: Backs—Arland, Hasel, Half-backs—Woods, Bates, Centres—Garrett, Lyngdell, Half-forwards—Stimmonds, Taylor, Clark, Forwards—Gray, Home, Followers—Garrett, Jones, Brown, Ross, 19th Man—Schehan, Backs—Schwarz, Smith, Half-backs—McNeill, Miller, Centres—Jones, Kemp, Half-forwards—Campbell, McNeill, Forwards—Dennison, Johnson, Dowling, Followers—Wain, Wilson, Nelson, 19th Man—Folles, JURY. Northcote were away from the home, Williamson, receiving from Seymour, tried a place kick and the ball sailed through the legs. Inter-Grey put Northcote three goals in front when he dashed in and scored. Sandringham attacked but several times the ball went out. Johnson eventually scored a free. The teams now attacked in turn. Ross scored for Northcote, and Beckett for Sandringham, and then Seymour again scored full points for Northcote. This effort by the referee, the outcome of a brilliant mark.

The home side now launched a further attack without success, but the Northcote defenders strenuously resisted any encroachment, and the final ball sounded leaving Northcote the winners by 25 points—no mean accomplishment at Sandringham. The final scores were:—

Goal-kickers: Northcote—Seymour (7), Gray (4), Williamson (2), Ross (2), Melzick, Home, Powell. Sandringham—McComb (4), Dennison (3), Campbell (2), Thomas, Tolson, Hallett, Beckett. Post Players: Northcote—Powell played a fine game at half-back and was awarded the points for the Herb Young trophy. Auckland's defence was superb and he was well supported by Hackett and Hart. Gray, kicking from the line, helped the forwards to many goals besides kicking two himself. Seymour and Lawrence played a good game on the wing. Williamson fought hard in the ruck and when at half-forward helped the forwards to many goals besides kicking two himself. Seymour and Dennison played well on the forward line. Campbell, Wilson, Jones and Lunn were the best of the others.

SATURDAY'S GAME Northcote will be at home on Saturday afternoon to the first and foremost Yarraville side, who are displaying excellent form. The game should be outstanding throughout. The home side should be successful. Patrons will be afforded the opportunity of seeing the two leading goal-kickers in action. Consequently the defence will need to have plenty of stamina.

PRESTON FAIL IN CRISIS

Yarraville Narrowly Escape Defeat VIGOROUS AND EXCITING FINISH (By "Follower") Yarraville lowered Preston's colors last Monday when the latter suffered their second defeat for the season by only a narrow margin. The game provided a vigorous and thrilling finish. Spectators were again held in the throes of excitement and expectation as they eagerly followed the fortunes of their side. The home team were supreme in the pivot position, whilst they were also superior in the air. Preston just failed at the crucial moment when openings, which were offered in the last few telling minutes, were not availed of. The match was played at Yarraville.

YARRAVILLE.—Backs: Lavender, A. Edwards, Pierce, Half-backs: Muloney, Ryan, W. Buckley, Centres: Prew, White, Penny, Half-forwards: Sheehan (c.), Evans, Kenn, Forwards: Williams, J. Buckley, Cameron, Followers: Warden, Wunyah, Lower, Woodwood.

Following a run of successes, Preston were checked by Yarraville on Monday evening at the latter's ground. Where an attendance of about 1000 witnessed a fighting finish, whilst the game hung in the balance, each side taking the lead in turn. Yarraville won the toss, kicking with the aid of a cool southerly breeze. Yarraville were first away but they failed to take advantage of an early opening, which was cleared for J. Buckley, who kicked a penalty. By converted a try, scored by Warr, Preston opened on the game. The attack was fruitful, as from it Warr scored a nice goal.

PRESTON REVEAL THEIR STRENGTH On the change over the home side attacked instantly, the beautiful marking of Lavender holding them at bay until a neat pass by Dowling to Warr enabled the visitors to obtain a flamer grip on the game. Yarraville were winning in the ruck, Wunyah repeatedly getting the hit out, which in many instances was successful in clearing the ruck. The home side attacked consistently, but owing to Preston's sound defence (Brews and Smith being outstanding) it was some time before the excellent judgement of Buckley paved the way for Sheehan to force home the advance.

Almost simultaneously on their forward move the home side was successful as Williams, marking splendidly, easily punted second goal. Although Preston repeatedly cut within range they either kicked hurriedly (when their policy should have been to kick) or were just out of position by the time through tactics of their opponents. Slowly Yarraville drew nearer to their opponents, and when J. Buckley's neatly applied ball to the ball, went through the goal, and the half again the home side were in front.

Table with 3 columns: Team, Goals, Points. PRESTON 6 9 45 YARRAVILLE 6 12 48

On resuming Ritchie appeared in place of Robinson, who was too ill to play. The third term saw a great struggle for supremacy, the defence of both sides displaying fine dash and determination in countering the attacks. After several minutes' play with Warr making opportunities, McEachern regained the lead for the visitors when he kicked.

It is quite likely that one or two changes will be made in Preston's ranks for the match to-morrow against Hawthorn in the presence of these two teams should provide an interesting game for the seventh round of the series.

Mr. Cook was one of our old and respected citizens, having resided in Northcote for over 20 years. He was secretary of the Northcote branch of the Australasian Engineering Union for the past eight years. Mr. Cook had been in the employ of Messrs. Deane, Brown & Co. for the past 18 years. NO SUSTENANCE—WENT BEGGING An Unemployed Husband MAINTENANCE ORDER VAILED

Raymond Eugene Chaplin, 300 Northcote, Clifton Hill asked Mr. J. W. Norris, P.M., at Northcote Court on Tuesday to suspend or reduce a maintenance order made against him in favor of his wife, Lillian Chaplin, for £1 for herself and 10/- weekly for a child.

Chaplin said that the original order was made in May, 1933, and he was then unemployed. In May last the court made an order for the payment of arrears at the rate of £1/6 per week, and to meet these he and his wife were contributing. He was still unemployed and had no prospects of work.

Mr. O'Connor (for the wife): You did not see your wife for some time before the order was made and at the time you were arrested prior to the case in May 27—No.

You were out of Victoria for a time?—Yes.

You were in Sydney twice?—Yes. I drove a car over for some friends and received 10/- each time and all expenses paid.

Was an offer made to your wife that you would return to Victoria if she would "lift the order"?—No. An attempt was made to arrive at some agreement. A week after I got back I was "picked up" by the police.

What were you doing in the country?—I was being fined for a dog. I could not get on to sustenance.

The P.M. said that there was no change in Chaplin's circumstances between the time the order was made and now. He was unemployed at both times, and even if he were out of work, however, there was still an obligation on him to support his wife.

The order as to the child was suspended for six months, that of the wife to remain in force.

Monthly Exhibition, which of course was of much less interest to him than re-visit, after an absence of over 60 years, his native town of Worthing. Even since he returned Mr. Bailey has launched out in his schemes, such as the building of the Preston Market.

For many years he represented the South Ward in the Northcote Council, his also did his son, the late Mr. Richard Bailey.

He is a foundation member of the Northcote Bowling Club, where his cheery nature and good sportsmanship have made him popular.

All will join in wishing so venerable and worthy a citizen "Many Happy Returns" of his birthday.

turned from this enterprise to be the first exporter of frozen rabbits and poultry to London.

As the depression lifted Mr. Bailey was one of the first to resume building operations, and eventually he achieved the fine record of having erected three hundred houses and shops in Northcote.

Visit to England. When past his eightieth year, Mr. Bailey, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Jessie Bailey, went home to the P.M. Islands.

Evidently Richard painted an alluring picture of Fiji for we find that Richard was soon on his way there, his brother having preceded him.

He bought a lot of trade goods, but found himself in some difficulty regarding their transport. However, with his usual shrewdness, he saw after after half a dozen draught horses going to the native king of Fiji on condition that his goods were transported free.

Returns to Victoria. The brothers required land and settled on as planters and traders for three years, when Mr. Edward evidently considering his prospects better in Victoria, returned there.

Getting good employment he had a peaceful run for about 12 years. His employer was a Mr. Josko, a Melbourne wine and spirit merchant, who brought the close of their association entrusted Mr. Bailey with the operating and operating of a mineral spring in the heart of the Bullbrook Forest, some miles out of Dullin.

Mr. Bailey is next heard of as a laker in North Fitzroy. It was about the middle sixties that he came to Northcote and in the years preceding and during the land boom he engaged in building.

The abatement of the land boom turned Mr. Bailey's thoughts to the land, and proceeding with his usual energy he soon had a place upon which acres of vines and thousands of strawberry plants were growing. He

GOLF

RESERVOIR CLUB

Saturday last saw a teams match played under special conditions, with 56 players taking part. The match resulted in a win for the captain's team by 3 matches. The old course is now being mown with a Bertram Parway mowder, which is doing a splendid job. The new course, however, is showing improvement, and the continued dry spell, with so many frosts, has retarded the natural growth of the grass, which is being put in good condition in the garden. With a continued weekly improvement of the course, it is the committee's intention to move some of their new quarters as soon as possible. Memberships still continue to increase, and it is expected that a first issue of debentures will be also issued very soon. If any one is interested, only need to write to the secretary and full particulars will gladly be sent. Free lessons are still a boon, and it is not necessary to book up with the secretary, as the professional considers the schools are far too large.

MIRACLE FOR MARY

"The beginning she had been christened Mary. And there had been washing and prayers and gifts of gladness. From near and far relatives had gathered to see the new baby and had gone away with dreams of beautiful knitted gifts. That was all at the beginning; for her name had often re-told the happiness being given with a certain pang. Her world to call her by the first name. The village folk in Barnston had been to visit Mrs. Martin, highly respected and treated with deference. She was excited; she could not think her husband. And her heart was in her throat as she watched him go. For a long time she stood by the window and stared unseeing down the winding roadway. Then her excitement grew, she began to bubble about attending to her simple packing. There were few things she needed when suddenly she remounted her car. She could never go and leave her car! Dr. Bryan was winking that she would be travelling that afternoon. Fannie assented; in her anxiety she wandered out into the scullery to look for her hat, but her calls remained unanswered. There had been a time when she could have asked her neighbors in the next cottage to help her out of such a predicament. But they were no more; they had removed some months past to go and live with a married son somewhere in London. In their place only a week or so ago, a young couple had arrived. She knew their name was Driscoll, but the husband was a traveller and was away from home a great deal. Beyond that she knew nothing—and only when she listened to her own knocking on their door did she realize that her request might be unavailing. She turned to go in her agitation, when there was a rush of feet and the door opened. "Hello!" A boy of four or five, jam adhering to the corner of his lips, his curly hair like a wind-blown straw-thatch, gazed up at her, friendly and unafraid. "Hello!" she responded, and felt foolish. "You—your mother—is Mrs. Driscoll it?" "Oh, yes!" he piped. Then he was gone with a smile, his feet carrying him into the dim interior. Their eyes met and he leaned forward. "You live all alone, Mrs. Martin?" he said, more in fact than in jest. "No one you can ask to stay with me?" "No-nobody," and she shook her head. "How would you like to go to the South Coast for a week or so?" he asked, and saw her start with surprise. She said nothing as he blinked behind his spectacles. "Well," and he looked straight at her, "I'm going to send you away, for a change you need. Oh, yes?" as he buttered her hands in protest. "I mean it. I know some people— an elderly couple, friends of mine. They'd be only too pleased to have you. If you've a word of good-bye, I'd rather stay here, doctor," she read.

"The beginning she had been christened Mary. And there had been washing and prayers and gifts of gladness. From near and far relatives had gathered to see the new baby and had gone away with dreams of beautiful knitted gifts. That was all at the beginning; for her name had often re-told the happiness being given with a certain pang. Her world to call her by the first name. The village folk in Barnston had been to visit Mrs. Martin, highly respected and treated with deference. She was excited; she could not think her husband. And her heart was in her throat as she watched him go. For a long time she stood by the window and stared unseeing down the winding roadway. Then her excitement grew, she began to bubble about attending to her simple packing. There were few things she needed when suddenly she remounted her car. She could never go and leave her car! Dr. Bryan was winking that she would be travelling that afternoon. Fannie assented; in her anxiety she wandered out into the scullery to look for her hat, but her calls remained unanswered. There had been a time when she could have asked her neighbors in the next cottage to help her out of such a predicament. But they were no more; they had removed some months past to go and live with a married son somewhere in London. In their place only a week or so ago, a young couple had arrived. She knew their name was Driscoll, but the husband was a traveller and was away from home a great deal. Beyond that she knew nothing—and only when she listened to her own knocking on their door did she realize that her request might be unavailing. She turned to go in her agitation, when there was a rush of feet and the door opened. "Hello!" A boy of four or five, jam adhering to the corner of his lips, his curly hair like a wind-blown straw-thatch, gazed up at her, friendly and unafraid. "Hello!" she responded, and felt foolish. "You—your mother—is Mrs. Driscoll it?" "Oh, yes!" he piped. Then he was gone with a smile, his feet carrying him into the dim interior. Their eyes met and he leaned forward. "You live all alone, Mrs. Martin?" he said, more in fact than in jest. "No one you can ask to stay with me?" "No-nobody," and she shook her head. "How would you like to go to the South Coast for a week or so?" he asked, and saw her start with surprise. She said nothing as he blinked behind his spectacles. "Well," and he looked straight at her, "I'm going to send you away, for a change you need. Oh, yes?" as he buttered her hands in protest. "I mean it. I know some people— an elderly couple, friends of mine. They'd be only too pleased to have you. If you've a word of good-bye, I'd rather stay here, doctor," she read.

PRESTON WIN AFTER BELL. On Saturday Preston met North Melbourne at Royal Park. Changes in team: White, Hickson (both injured), W. Monagle, Sloth, Mussett, Richardson, MacGregor were replaced by E. Ryan, Pannock, Maraland, B. Monagle, Gaffney, Smith, A. Leonard. Preston lost the toss. Andy led by Brown they began a fierce onslaught against the wind. Poor kicking and lack of cohesion among the forwards spoilt many chances, but Preston did well to keep North down to an eleven-point lead at quarter time. Preston: 2-1; North: 1-0. White replaced B. Monagle (injured) at the first change. Kicking with the wind, Preston made the mistake of playing wings. A dreary quarter was followed by the fine ground play of Leonard, Kelly, and White, the last two securing goals from clever snaps. No system was noticeable and but for the fine defence of Brown and the splendid marking of the Pickett brothers, North's lead would have been greater at half time. Preston: 4-0; North: 1-0. W. White gave the players some advice at half time, and much better football was seen in the third quarter. The back-line was magnificent, throwing relieving by brilliant dashes and driving kicks. Kelly was prominent, his forceful methods winning in the heavier work. Three-quarter scores: Preston: 4-11; North: 8-2. The forwards were combining better, and by playing down the centre Preston posted three goals in quick succession. Understanding between White and M. Leonard had been the great factor in this recovery. Preston needed three points. Brown re-heved and M. Leonard was freed as the ball rang. The angle shot brought victory by 4 points. Final: Final Scores: Gls Blnds Pts Preston 8 13 61 North 0 3 57 Brown was best for Preston. Pickett brothers marked excellently all day, while M. Leonard's forward work was good. White, Kelly, and Flack played a great part in the victory. Goals:—M. Leonard (2), E. Ryan (2), Gaffney, White, Flack, Kelly.

THE PUNTERS' NOTEBOOK Points of Form for Future Guidance

SELECTIONS FOR MOONEE VALLEY ON SATURDAY (By "Luteplayer") The few Grand National candidates who sported silk at Moonee Valley last Saturday were not class enough for the form to have any bearing on the jumping double. Dress Suit, winner of the Ballater Hurdle, did not impress Chester, did not shape like a horse who could run out as a National horse, and the South Australian, Great three miles.

Four National candidates ran in the Ballater Hurdle, but all were unplaced, two falling. Another meeting will be held at the Valley to-morrow and form at this fixture is likely to prove more helpful to backers in search of the winners of the big double. The following are the chief points in the notebook for the future guidance of backers. FULL CHARGE: Came from a long way back with a brilliant run and just failed to catch Dress Suit in the Valley Hurdle. It was his second win over the huttons, the first also resulting in a similar placing. This jumping, while good, can be improved, and he needs only racing to accomplish this. Should be a better worth following. GREAT CHESTNUT: Favorite for the Hurdle and was going so easily after jumping the last obstacle that he looked a certain winner, but when tackled by Dress Suit gave in without a fight and weakened to third place. A dashing jumper with plenty of pace. Will benefit from the race, as it was his first since Easter, and will win a minor hurdle and a COURT CHIEF: One of the leading division all the way in Warroona Handicap. Battled on gamely, but beaten by three-quarters of a length by Kahlil. The form was big improvement on an unimpressive effort at Mentone, and seemingly he is a better galloper under a light scale of weights. CASPER DOB: Third in Warroona Handicap after being in first three most of the way. Struggled on gamely, but could not improve. It was his best gallop for some time and he may be able to win another race or two in the future. BELLE MARIE: This most consistent galloper was unlucky in Warroona Handicap in which she finished a close fourth. Offered for a run on the indie, but did not get it, and when he finally took her to the outside it was too late. NOEL SOLDAT: Although he had not raced for three months and looked above form in condition, he had fair support for the Warroona Handicap. Began too slow to have chance of winning, but galloped on steadily to improve. BOLD BOB: Showed a lot of pace and finished sixth in Warroona Handicap. Was a smart sprinter when looked by J. Scoble and won a Standard weight, after which he broke down. Now raced by W. Trivett, who is clever in his handling of un-sound gallopers, and there was suggestion in Saturday's performance, that he might be a contender for the Heraldic gelding to win a race or two. CALPLY: Was set a difficult task in the Steeple. Was last of the field for reasons. Led most of the way and appeared to have a wide show turning into the straight. Was beaten into third place, but a length behind winner. It was creditable effort and he has been improving with each run may closer to success next start. KING OF ARMS: Always in first four and ran on strongly in third place in Steeple. Finished fourth at previous start on the course and may be capable of taking out a steeple of moderate class. MARRIAGE: Was up with Harmonie and going well when he ran off at the fence near the mile for 100 yards. Taken back and again attempting to run off, he slipped and fell on the first fence. The fact that the rider attempted to complete the course when the connections were anxious for him to get round to help him finally for a steepchaser's flat race, and this point may be worth keeping in mind. BALDPLAIN: One of the leaders all the way in the Compensation Handicap, but found April the first too difficult in the final stages. He was beaten into second place. The form, following his second in Bayview at Mentone, suggests that he is near a jumping winning street. KALONIN: Looked to be a bit unlucky in the Compensation Handicap. Well placed when he lost his position, but came home strong and just missed a place. There is another system of racing that he has not been near at hand for this most consistent performer. RIGHTSPAR: A long way back until final stages of the Compensation Handicap. Ran on well in fifth place. Nothing out of the ordinary, but with a little care in the future of him, he will pick up a race or two. KNIGHTS: He is a horse who needs to be placed with care but his sixth in the Compensation Handicap was not so bad when he was taken into account that he was asked to race in the lead from the start. Will shape better when ridden behind his field. BRILLIANT STAR: He did not finish the Geelong Cup, was prevented to near the seven miles. After the Geelong race had a slight injury and had to be eased in his work, so he will benefit from Saturday's race. TINTARIN: Showed improvement in St. Monags Handicap, finishing second from a handy position, consistent and can be placed for other wins. KINFAUNTS: Following his win at Ballarat, had fair support for double figure odds for St. Monags Handicap. Found seven furlongs place after being second to step at turn. Worth considering as a shorter journey. HAP: Second favorite for Warroona Handicap. Could not get early pace, and was last of the out field approaching the three longes post. Galloped on straight from that point and finished she should go on improving. HARRY GAVIN: Not yet a "been." Following third placing in Montague Plate and Lancaster Handicap at Flemington, beat all but Kahlil in the first division of the Northwood Welter. Well placed in where he lost ground; ran up at turn and struggled on well. MYRNA: Following double success at the last Ballarat Mares' meet was in contention for first division of Northwood Welter and fourth. Lost some ground after start through interference, quickly recovered. Third early, however, may have been responsible for lack of dash at finish, so is not of another chance. CURZOLA: Backed with great success for the first division of Northwood Welter, but was not possible. May have needed check near the turn, however, having regard to the manner in which he was backed, it may be wise to consider him again. SHOT and KAHIL: At the Valley, back in March won races at A and Werribee. In all three he won well. DIXON: Not well placed after second division of Northwood Welter but moved up smartly turning home. In front at distance, but lost stride by Pearlyflier. Struggled on well, but winner and just a more brilliant. Back to form a win in sight. EGLONITE: Well backed equal favorite for second division of Northwood Welter. Led most of the way and appeared to have a wide show turning into the straight. Was beaten into third place, but a length behind winner. It was creditable effort and he has been improving with each run may closer to success next start. CARDOONA: One of the leaders of the second division of Northwood Welter for a long time but came home fast in fourth place. Also ran on well at previous start in Mentone Purse, May 20 and 21, to win a race of the Purse type. MOONEE VALLEY SELECTIONS Winterton Hurdle OITVALON ... .. 25/- ton weight, 1/6 cwt. Do you Know Why? CHALLENGE CYCLES Are so Popular!

Here are Some of the Many Reasons— Frames are built of best Reynolds' Double-butted Tubing and assembled with the best English Fittings. Ten years' written guarantee. Three months' Free Service. The finest grade of enamelling procurable.

Bonderising! Absolutely Rustless

BONDERISING changes the surface of the metal into a rust-proof insoluble phosphate. In the Bonderised bicycle the enamel is keyed into the Bonderite, which is part of the metal. The finish is harder to chip, and even if the enamel and Bonderite is scratched right through rust can't run, and the damage is localised. To remove stove enamel requires 3 hours' boiling only. To remove enamel from a Bonderised bicycle takes 10 to 12 hours' boiling AND the use of a brush. All Bicycles built by us from now on will be Bonderised.

The Cobbers' Club

Dear Cobbers.—Jacko has bought another car! I don't know if I told you, but he sold the Oxtin because he thought it was getting old. Fluffy said it was because he thought it might fall to pieces. Anyway, this "new" car is an old Ford, and it's some car! He took it to the garage to get it going on Saturday. First, we filled up the petrol tank and sucked the petrol through to the engine. Then Uncle Sam wound the handle, but it just gave a loud pop and no more. Jacko tried the self-starter, but it wouldn't start. At last I found a broken wire, and after we mended it Jacko picked up the starting handle and at the first turn the engine raced and the handle whizzed out of Jacko's hand and shot out of the car. My word, Jacko was lucky it didn't break his wrist. However, we got the car going and that was the main thing. It will close on June 30, so if you have not entered, hurry! Send in your contributions and storyettes as usual. Until next week. With best wishes and love from all,

UNCLE PHIL.

TIGERS

The oak is a mighty monarch. He rules over oak and down. He is clad in robes of gold and green. And he wears an acorn crown; The wild birds nest in his branches, And at his silent feet The small red flowers of the wood-land bloom. Secure from the scorching heat, The birch is a lovely lady, The queen of the woods, I ween, And she sways and bows as the breeze goes by, And ruffles her robes of green. He beech is a comely matron, In a simple russet gown, "I'll keep her beauty when other trees have long been bare and brown. He pine is a gallant soldier, He walks on the hill, and he's as sly as a snake and day, Where the winds blow fierce and chill, he chestnut's a haughty courtier, And his boughs spread far and wide. And the willow's a maiden bending low Upon the river side.

QUITE IMPOSSIBLE

She was reclining on her troubles to hubby at the moment. "That Mrs. Smith is a terrible goose," she said humbly. He sighed resentfully. "Why do you think so, my dear?" he asked. She smiled at him simply enough. "Because," she said, "but she says she heard it before," his wife replied.

OH, DOCTOR!

Everything about me had something wrong with it, so I sent for the doctor, who came instantly. First, we went into the garden, and the doctor said that the celery and a head of lettuce had a bad heart, and the carrots had scurvy fever. The potatoes had sore eyes, the tomatoes looked a bit sooty, and the asparagus was a bit of a rascal. He discovered that the daisies had lock-jaw, and the stairs were badly run down. The windows had a bad pain. The stove was in a boiling fever, the fire had a cold, and the clock was a bit of a rascal. Of course, no one could be cured, so the doctor went home again.

The Yellow Cat

It all began when Grey was following home, inexplicably enough by the strange, famished yellow cat. The cat was thin with large, intense eyes, which gleamed amber in the darkness. It was standing there as Grey walked, watching him as if he were a stranger. He looked up at him, and then it followed at his heels, creeping along as though it expected to be stepped on. He did not mind it, but he did not like it. It seemed to be following him as if it were a shadow.

Grey, although he would never have admitted it, was a cardsharpener and a professional gambler. But even a cardsharpener needs a little ordinary money pass into the hands of "the pigeon," innocent, reckless young boys, who have money to burn, ought by the rules of the game to have lost. Yet when playing with him, Grey, a man respected even among the slumbers of the gambling houses, had lost his money pass into the hands of "the pigeon," innocent, reckless young boys, who have money to burn, ought by the rules of the game to have lost.

It was a bitterly cold, misty night as damp. Grey shivered as he went on his way. He had been walking for some time when he noticed a shadowy figure in the distance. It was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait. Grey followed him for some time, but he did not know who he was. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait.

Grey turned and looked back at the shadowy figure. He saw that it was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait.

to the cupboard and took out a cracked jug. He moved the bread on to his own plate and poured out the little milk contained in the shallow broad-plate. The cat drank, not greedily but with the fierce rapidity which betokens hunger and thirst. Grey watched it as he poured the whisky into a cup. He drank, and refilled the cup. He then began to undress, carefully, in order to prolong the life of his worn dinner-jacket.

When the yellow cat started at him the vilest, loathsome sound; and Grey for a moment was afraid. Then he laughed, as if at himself for allowing control to slip, and dismissed the cat with a "next to Lady Susan Tyrell's." Grey, although he would never have admitted it, was a cardsharpener and a professional gambler. But even a cardsharpener needs a little ordinary money pass into the hands of "the pigeon," innocent, reckless young boys, who have money to burn, ought by the rules of the game to have lost.

He dressed, counted up his money and tucked it into his pocket. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait. He was a man in a long coat, who was walking with a slow, steady gait.

Police Commissioner's Scheme To Be Opposed
A letter was received from the Municipal Association by the Preston Council on Monday expressing opposition to the scheme of the Chief Commissioner of Police for controlling traffic in the City of Preston and throughout the metropolis. It was decided from the point of uniformity, councils should retain control of traffic.

The letter further suggested that a sub-committee of the Municipal Association should be formed to draw up an alternative scheme whereby uniformity of traffic laws would be achieved, yet traffic control would remain in the hands of the municipalities.

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

Romance in Fashions

Their Vagaries and Motifs

It is now generally agreed in fashion fields that the romantic tendency in feminine styles is a definite inspiration from the costumes which Marlene Dietrich wears in "The Scarlet Empress," Greta Garbo in "Queen Christina," and Anna Sten in "Nana." Taken from the most romantic stories in the most exotic periods, these characterizations with their elaborate styles have influenced every smart woman toward a completely feminine fashion plan.

BECAUSE every fashion trend is a reflection of woman's foremost interests and activities, these designs are the inevitable reaction of the enthusiastic reception of the above mentioned productions. Combined with this is the psychological reaction from the standardized fashions which have prevailed for the past few years. Since that war women have seemed to present a regimental uniformity which the woman of 1934 scorns and refuses to follow. Hence the romantic, elaborate tendency of this spring and summer mode.

The Russian influence is easily interpreted. For months European styles have shown a leaning toward Orientalism. Now the combination of Parisian designs with Japanese, Chinese and Persian motifs has resulted in a Russian tendency, which was also emphasized by the films of the great "The Scarlet Empress." Marlene Dietrich's costumes explain the influence which prevailed in those exciting times.

Her jewelry, the embroideries and the general lavishness which existed throughout that era were similar to the Russian mode which is observed in clothes today. Therefore, Dietrich's costumes will have an instantaneous effect on the present fashion trend.

Prills to the Fore

The return of icy frosts, dainty ruffles and soft whiteness around necklines and slender wrists is a pure and simple proof that women have tired of the harsh, masculine lines they invaded last year. Even tailored sports clothes have gone excessively at least the uncomparable feminine habit of never throwing anything away has been vindicated.

When Fox Film studio wardrobe experts were unable to find a nightgown of sufficient antiquity and frilliness for Louise Fazenda to wear in her role as the prim governess in "Curvium," the actress just smiled a superior smile and draped her bosom with a returned with a garment that more than satisfied Director Erik Charell's requirements, explaining that it was one which had belonged to her grand mother.

HERESY a beauty hint from the loveliest young lady of five years in filmdom, Shirley Temple, is to name, currently playing in "Baby Take a Bow" a Fox production. The advice, of course, comes in a roundabout fashion—rather a triple pass, Shirley, Mrs. Gertrude Temple to screen fans.

Almost a perfect child physically, Shirley's marvellous complexion is the joy of cameramen. She needs no make-up because of the rosiest of her cheeks, and her delicate blonde hair is perfectly adapted for the No. 1 curling machine. But they are carefully supervised, so that her fine skin and hair aren't harmed by the sun.

HINT No. 3: Lots and lots of vegetables. Vegetables in purees were given her from infancy; now she takes them steamed. Yes, she eats spinach and likes it! Vegetable soup is her principal love in the same old way, but now ideas entirely.

ACCORDING to George Lo Mairo, Fox Film's fashion expert, feather will be very much the thing coming spring. Not the usual kinds of feathers used in the past seasons, nor used in the same old way, but new ideas entirely.

"It is all right to use the same old kind of feathers, if they are used in an individual way—not their natural state," explained Mr. Lo Mairo. "For instance, if an egret feather is used, they should be straight and not feathers straightened and flattened, so that one wonders just what kind they are."

Wedding Bells

Gilson-Stark

THE Presbyterian Church, James Street, Northcote, was banked with white chrysanthemums on June 2 for the wedding of Mr. Arthur C. Gilson and Miss Margaret K. Stark, of Northcote, and looking graceful in her simple white satin gown over which fell a billowy tulle veil arranged in halo fashion on her hair. June roses composed her shower bouquet.

Misses Marion and Elizabeth Stark (sisters of the bride) and Misses Duane Clarkson and Kate Hadder (the bride's attendants) were most-likely friends of the same circle except with silver tulle. Silver lame toques with stiffened white tulle eye veils were also worn and their shoes were pink carinations and gladioli. The groom's present to each maid was a string of pearls, crystal heads. Mr. Basil Gilson (brother of groom) as best man and Mr. Alfred Stark (brother of bride) as groomsmen supported the groom, who is the second son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gilson, of Daily Street, Northcote.

At Normanby Hall, Thornbury, the reception and breakfast were held under the excellent catering of Mrs. G. M. Hill, Victoria, who has arranged the real mode of the moment will consider wearing short skirts for anything but active sports which necessitate freedom around the knees. For such occasions, skirts may be shorter but for semi-formal occasions they will be "longish," for evening they will be definitely long. I have never approved of giving a set length for skirts. Six inches from the floor would be a long skirt for some women, a far-too-short length for others. It is up to the smart woman to know exactly what length gives her more grace, and if she can decide this she need not worry about her neighbor's skirt. However, it is inconsistent to believe that this romantic, sweeping vogue could find the short skirts she once knew a part of its plan.

Evans-Baker

REV. DOUGLAS GIBBS officiated at the South Preston Methodist Church on May 27 when he joined in holy matrimony Mr. Edgar Evans and Miss Elizabeth Margaret Baker. The bride, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Baker, of Swan Hill, Victoria, was given away by her father to the church, who tastefully decorated in autumn tones. During the ceremony Mr. Rogers, of Carnegie, sang "For You Alone." While gorgeously and lace formed the bridal gown, which had a pointed lace yoke with cowl neck and to the fitting skirt fullness was added with finely frilled ruffles. Lace mittens met the dainty puffed sleeves of the gown. The bride wore a blue veil (lent by an aunt in New Zealand) was set well back of her forehead and caught at the back with tulle and a head-dress of orange blossoms with many over each ear. Orchids, white cactus dahlias, smart white lilies and fern were arranged in her bouquet.

The train-bearer was little Miss Myrtle Evans, niece of the groom and the maid was Miss Hazel Cleland and Charlie Evans (sister of groom). They were frocked in apricot shaded gossamer and lace, cut with a string of pearls and a blue yoke. The autumn tulle covers in their bouquets matched their headbands of daisies. Mr. A. Shultz acted as best man and Mr. P. Newton as groomsmen.

At the Sunday School hall the guests were entertained at the reception and wedding breakfast for which Mrs. Olorenshaw, of Normanby Hall, Thornbury entered in her usual lavish style.

A navy suit matched the navy ensemble worn by the bride's mother and a black gown with white relief and black trim was the choice of the groom's mother for her wedding. After the breakfast the couple left by car for Healesville, where the honeymoon was spent. The bride travelled in brown costume and tongue on suite, wearing a white blouse and a handsome fox fur. On their return the couple will reside at 229 George road, Ormond.

MY BEAUTY HINT

By Miriam Hopkins

THE most important thing about make-up is knowing how to choose your shades of powder and rouge. Powder should be selected by touching the tip of the finger into the different shades and applying spots of powder to the face. The one which is the nearest match to the skin, or just a shade darker, should be used. Rouge should be selected by touching the cheek and matching the rouge to that stimulated spot. In this way the make-up "blends" into the skin and you have an expert method of identifying your own natural color.

HEATHER ANGEL, who is now under contract to Fox Films, is one of the few girls who can wear her hair straight back off her face, and her features are even. She also wears it parted in the middle.

New use for fringe—feared Elizabeth Young, who appears in "Paradise Pictures" HOLLYWOOD has a new craze for sports costumes... and it's fringe according to Travis Banton, fashion designer to Paramount. A visit to one of Hollywood's fashionable golf courses and country clubs will find many of Hollywood's feminine players using fringe to advantage in many ways.

Elizabeth Young, one of Paramount's younger players, who is listed in that company's "Stars of Tomorrow" group, was one of the first to start this new craze of fringe... and plenty of it. One of Miss Young's smartest sports ensembles is a green knit frock with a loose fitting jacket of the same material. It's the fringed scarf, however, which gives the outfit smartness and attractiveness.

Talk of the Grand Nationals

POINTS OF FORM FOR FUTURE GUIDANCE (By "Luteplayer")

Three events for jumpers were on the Moonee Valley programme last Saturday, but the form of the hurdlers only served to confuse the Grand National issue. Except to discount Wirrate's National chance, the Steeple told no more than we already knew.

Our Comet led all the way to win from home in Valley (Claude Handley) the straight and then downed last hurdle for a second time. The form was a vast improvement on his previous showing and he was not without a chance in the more important race, but I have some doubts of his running out the mile.

The free going gallop of the winner made it necessary for the rider (Prime Seal) to hustle his mount into a second fault. Jumpers made a mistake in Prime Seal may be able to give the tables on our Comet at the quarter, but I am not confident of it. It is doubtful if we shall see more stalling in the Grand National and a headquarter that the other side will meet them on a better note. It is likely to improve matters. I think that the horse imported from England will be more developed and a minor winner does not appear to have the necessary qualifications for the Grand National.

When Oldham finished third at the National, it was a surprise. He was not particularly impressive, but his subsequent successes in jumpers, such as the Grand National, have made him a name. He completed the double in the Burnsway jumpers' at on Saturday, and it was an extra performance. During the race he did not show any sign of being in the lead and it is remarkable that he did not choke up and stop. In the race the straight his tongue, and his performance was hanging out a long leg.

It is not altogether convinced that the horse is a genuine stayer, but it is shown that he has it on most of the days in the matter of pace, and he has a good margin over the other horses in the race. He is in the race with only 20 lb. more than minimum and may be dangerous. Perhaps the only National candidate with greater pace than the other is Oldham. He again as an unlucky in the Deep Creek Handicap.

It was announced this week that the world cup in the National will be regarded as a double if he is by no means the dominating horse people seem to consider him.

It has to be remembered that last year he had only 9.7 when he crossed up chasing Brier, while on this occasion he will have to do the chasing with 11.2. Sarukos is sure to take it more for two things of the day, and he will be a danger to the winner to carry his weight.

Wirrate performed wretchedly in the Travamore Steeple, being laid off all the way. He will need to improve a lot to have a chance in the Steeple. L. J. Hynes, who is 12 lb. down, evidently has little hope of him making the improvement, for immediately after the race he asked to see the horse's chest, and he has in the National, and Vin O'Neil, owner-trainer of Wirrate, agreed and Hynes will now ride the horse in the National.

He is not to run in the Grand National hurdle. There is nothing wrong with him, but L. McInnes, who rode him last year, has been saying because he will not be fit enough to ride him this year. The horse was badly injured at the Warrambold Grand Annual Meeting, and his wiring has retarded his recovery.

CHIEF POINTS OF FORM The following are selected as the chief points of the Valley form for the week's future guidance.

PRIME SEAL: Our Comet had a little on him in the matter of pace coming in second place. Got into two or three hurdles, but retired before he contributed to the making. Should not be long in winning a minor race.

OLDHAM: Was first to challenge our Comet in Valley Hurdle. It was a tough effort, but he was not quite so patient as to succeed. Finished third, a neck behind Prime Seal. Although he had had a run on the flat, it was his first race over the barriers for several weeks, so he is bound to be improved by it.

STAR GOD: Had fair support for Valley Hurdle, but could only finish a poor fourth, not making several bad jumps. Actual running was no recommendation for the immediate future, but it has to be taken into account that it was his first over hurdles for some time. Looks in a state of heart and probably will improve sufficiently to win a minor hurdle or two.

BLISS MARE: After meeting with interference and losing ground three times in Valley (Claude Handley) the straight and then downed last hurdle for a second time. The form was a vast improvement on his previous showing and he was not without a chance in the more important race, but I have some doubts of his running out the mile.

WATERBURY: Having first race since winning Williamstown Easter Stakes. Finished a close fourth in Channas Handicap. Was not noticed until well on the straight, when he showed a more stalling in the Grand National and a headquarter that the other side will meet them on a better note. It is likely to improve matters.

SAITAKOS: While he had no chance with Oldham, in second in Jumpers' flat was creditable effort, and he galloped on strongly. It made his third successive second placing and he is expected to hit a big field.

HINNA: While no excuse can be offered for his failure to do better than second in Welter, he ran a game honest race, is very fit and should make marks in the minor races.

PEARL-FISHBIRD: Handy enough at turn in Welter, but took a little time to settle down in straight. It will never last bit to gain third place.

YANCY CRAVAT: For a 50/1 chance ran a surprisingly good race in Welter. One of the leaders all the way and struggled on rather well to second place, but was out of mind for a race of moderate company.

The Cobbers' Club

CONDUCTED BY UNCLE PHIL

Dear Cobbers—We are pleased with the number of entries for the Similies Competition. They are very good indeed. We have decided to close the competition to-morrow (June 30), so hurry if you haven't sent yours in yet. A new competition will start next week, so look out for it.

A new girl Cobber has joined this week—Sylvia Lawrence. We all send her greetings and hope she will enjoy being a member of the club.

My word it rained on Monday and it seemed indeed the middle of winter. June 21 was the shortest day. Did you notice any difference? However, it was only a minute shorter than the Westminster. I don't suppose you did. From now onwards it will be longer and the night correspondingly shorter until when December 21 arrives we will have the longest day.

Are you interested in the Test cricket? We all are. Uncle Sam is a terror for listening in. Grandpa stays up till midnight during the matches, but Uncle Sam slips up all the stations close down. Grandpa says it's a good thing there are not any stations that broadcast all day and night or we wouldn't get any sleep at all.

A Cobber has suggested that the Pets should try an entry for the Similies Competition. Well, the other day Fluffy and Jacko started. Jacko got up to 35 and couldn't find any more, but Fluffy only had 65. So she looked through his and said half of them were no good. In the mix-up that followed, Fluffy was left with 100, but she never really decided how many they could find.

Well, Cobbers, that's all this week. A big cheerio to you all.

UNCLE PHIL.
P.S.—Don't forget the Similies Competition closes on Saturday.

NEW COMPETITION

Similies

For this competition, Cobbers, find how many popular Similies you can collect. Examples are as follows—"As blind as a bat," "As deaf as a doorpost," but they must be good ones.

Competition closes on June 30, and Uncle Sam's decision is final. Mark your envelopes "Competition."

BIRTHDAYS

All the Cobbers, Uncle Phil and the Pets send the happiest and heartiest of birthday wishes and greetings to:

- Beryl Lomas (June 30), Kevin Power (July 1), Greta White and Daisy Scoble (July 1), Staniel Jackson (July 2), Margie Brown (July 4), Marie Hanson and Jean Moylan (July 5), Eric Roberts and Lita Flynn (July 6).

OUR MAIL BAG

IS CLARENCE ST. NORTHCOTE, N.17 Dear Uncle Phil:—It was the first time I have ever entered for your competitions and I hope to win one of them. I send my love to the Pets.

I like Uncle Sam's story. I have two sisters who are both in the club.

Sylvia Lawrence writes:—Welcome to the Cobbers and Birthday Club, Sylvia. Fluffy is glad you have joined up. Will you send us a snap of yourself for the album? If you have one? How do you like the rain? I am sending your certificate on Sylvia. Greetings from all and a special one from Fluffy.—E.P.

Mrs. Southwood writes:—I am forwarding your certificate on Alice, and I hope you'll like great care of it. How do you like the rain? Jacko likes it as it gives him water in the garden.—E.P.

G. Joyce writes:—Congratulations on the 100 marks. Jacko is pleased. The prize will be ready on Tuesday, so bring your certificate.—E.P.

Shirley and Margery Wood—So you have a baby brother now, Cobbers. He must be the most delightful baby, and I'm sure you both love him dearly and are so proud of him. We're just waiting for the day when you send us a snap of him, as the Pets are so interested. Greetings and love from the Pets and E.P.

Joyce Mackenzie writes:—The Pets do enjoy chattering with the new one, and it goes on rain occasions at the first shot. Usually they have to wind and rattle to end and then, presto! It starts all of a sudden when they least expect it. Thanks for the Similies, wishes and love from the Pets and E.P.

Vera and Reg Keele—The rap is still intact, although the Pets did go to the football on Saturday and he did bring home a stuffed toy. He was a tremendous fuss making it go again. While Jacko cranked her up Fluffy thought but does and we all had a grand time. How is your Similies competition? The Pets send love and greetings.—E.P.

CONTRIBUTIONS

THE MAY DUGHT
The boys were being examined on the subject of personal hygiene. A boy was asked, "What have you to do to keep your teeth nice and white?" "Clean them," was the reply. "When ought you to clean them?" "Morning, noon and night." "What are they to be cleaned with?" "A toothbrush." "Very good. Have you a toothbrush?" "No, sir." "But how do you know about the uses of toothbrushes?" "We sell them," was the answer.

DRINKS
Drinks was one of those determined men who stick their jaw out at adversaries and send them whimpering away corners. When he fell out of the boat he was being in, he decided on his course of action. Any ill-luck, he decided, could get a man's hair, so he opened a barber's shop in a workhouse-class neighborhood. After his first effort at hair cutting he promptly handed his customer a mirror. The man took one quick look and staggered.

"Wow," he wailed, "what have you cut it with—a knife or a fork?" (GOOD)
"I believe in appealing to her children rather than punishing them. One day when Tommy had been particularly naughty she said, 'If you are going to be naughty, Tommy, I'll make another powder, and she'll die and be taken to the cemetery.' Tommy hugged her. 'May I sit beside the coachman?'" he asked. (GOOD)

Having been fitted with a new dental plate, the vicar was asked to retire into an ante-room to accustom himself to it. In a few minutes he returned and said, "I have a 'ham-fist' from the other room and in a moment the word was repeated. The vicar immediately went in to say, 'I'm sorry you're having trouble.' 'No trouble at all,' replied the vicar. 'You know that word is used in the Scriptures, and the fact is I haven't been able to pronounce it properly for many years.'"
(GOOD) Henry May.

THREE NAUGHTY ELVES
There was once a forest and in it lived three little elves and a giant. One day the three elves were going about near the forest. The giant said, "Let us play in the giant's garden and pull up all the plants. It is such a wicked fellow!" The giant heard them and said, "How dare you pull up my plants, you rascals." The three were so cross he chased them, but they ran all over his garden and trampled down the young plants. When the giant saw this he became very angry and he went to the garden and was never seen again. (GOOD) Joyce Mackenzie.

RECOVERED
A young girl named umbrella given her as wedding presents, and decided she would change one of them for a walking stick for her husband. She took the umbrella back to the shop where she bought it and asked that it might be changed. The assistant said she was afraid it could not be done. "But why?" asked the girl. "The name of your husband is on that label," said the assistant. "But that's a label for recovery!" (GOOD) Vera P. Keefe.

CHILD OF ALL SORTS
A sweet girl—Carric Mol (seamstress).
A pleasant girl—Dorrie Kostoly (generalist).
A handsome girl—Ella Gant (elementary).
A flower girl—Thoda Denton (Rhoadendron).
A musical girl—Sarah Nade (seamstress).

PICNIC PICKING
Who can find the fruit in the following sentences?
Tomato are many more cakes than apples. (Apple.)
I hope Archie will be in time. (Do you know the best way to stop jamming?)
I should like you to stay with me on my picnic. (Picnic.)
Wrap each carefully in tissue paper. (Fruit)—Date, pear, plum, melon, peach. (GOOD) Alan Love.

WHEN SNOWDRIPS RING
When snowdrips ring their fairy chime,
Though wintry winds blow cold and chill,
We dream of golden summer time,
The ground is white with sparkling rime,
A spotted mantle clothes the hill,
When snowdrips ring their fairy chime,
All hands and bare stand oak and pine,
But though their boughs are leafless still,
We dream of golden summer time,
As yet we see no daffodil,
When snowdrips ring their fairy chime,
The Christmas rose is past her prime,
Perhaps they come her place to fill,
And bring us dreams of summer time,
Dear blossoms of our northern clime,
That bloom while few chains stream and fill,
And when they ring their fairy chime,
We dream of golden summer time.
(GOOD) Bessie Goldstein.

MUSICAL
The policeman's son was learning music. He was playing the harp. He was there in his class piece of music. "Penny asking a policeman that," said the boy's mother. "If you were there you'd know how many bars there were in the best he might have been able to tell you!" (GOOD) G. Henderson.

STORYTEES
A harassed mother took up the doctor one day to say that her child had swallowed the pencil out of his diary. "I'll come at once," promised the doctor. "But what are you doing in the meantime?" "Using my fountain pen," was the reply. (GOOD) Billy Stead.

"It's quite all right," said the smart young woman when the old man in the crowd had been told. "I'll put up with it." "If you'll allow me," said the old man, "I'll prefer to stand," she insisted, giving him a gentle push. "How relations woman," he shouted, "I want to get out!" (GOOD) Joyce Alken.

RIDDLES

Why were Lord Lytton and Charles Dickens the two most industrious people who ever lived?—Because Lytton wrote "Night and Morning," and Dickens edited "All the Year Round." (GOOD) Jessie Francis.

Why is an author the most wonderful man in the world?—Because his tale (tail) comes out of his head. (GOOD) E. Francis.

Why is a motor car unlike a tree?—One has its leaves and the other carries its load. (GOOD) Colson Mahony.

WHY THINGS ARE DONE

WHY A BALANCE IS KEPT IN A GLASS CASE
The delicate balances used in laboratories weighing small quantities of chemicals are always kept in glass cases, the doors of which are closed tightly with the actual weighing is proceeding. The reason for this is that the balance is glass is so sensitive that it is affected by outside influences, such as air currents, which would prevent weighing being carried out with accuracy. When such delicate weighing is being done the sensitive instrument is placed in a glass case, the least movement of the far as air is kept out on the skin of the face is concerned, would seriously affect the result. The closely-fitting glass case prevents all movements of air, and ensures accuracy of weighing.

The Yellow Cat

He felt (Grannie's) the richer by the hundred odd pounds. The first success was the prelude to the fiercest slice of luck to use his own words that he had ever known. He planned scientifically, not losing his gambled methodically banking a proposition, striving to reach the goal of his gains each morning; planning, scheming, trying to reach the high-water mark at which, so that himself with the gambler's game-woman faculty, he would stop and never gamble again.

Somehow he could not make up his mind to leave the poverty-stricken him in the fashionable mews. He was terribly afraid it would spoil a chance of luck. He tried to improve himself, to increase his worth. It was for there was no doubt in his mind that the cat was the cause of his sudden transition from poverty to wealth. He was a miser, intensely miserly, miserly as a miser, miserly as a miser, miserly as a miser.

He fed it regularly, waiting on it as though it were his wife. He made a spasmodic attempt to express it, but the cat would not be tamed. He was so afraid of it, he left it alone. If the cat came out whenever he went in or out, he saw it was there watching him with its gleaming amber eyes.

He accepted the situation philosophically enough. His wife talked to him of himself, his plans for the future, the new people he met, for money had suddenly unlocked more avenues than Grannie's—all this in the eloquence derived from the cat's purr. He was so used to the cat's purr, he would not have noticed the cat's purr if it had not been there.

The cat seemed to be aware of something unusual. It stretched itself slowly and stood up, regarding them with a fierce light in its eyes.

"The girl screamed."

"For God's sake, take it away!" she cried. "I can't bear it! I can't bear it. Take that damned cat away!" And she began to sob wildly, retreating towards the door.

At this Grey lost all control and, cursing wildly, shouting bestial things at the oncoming animal, seized the cat by the tail.

"Don't—don't cry, dearie," panted Grey, holding the cat. "I'll settle this swine soon enough. Wait for me, and be staggered through the door with me."

Grey ran through the deserted streets. The cat had subsided under the clutch of his fingers and lay inertly, his yellow fur thrilling. He scarcely realised where he was going. All he realised was an overwhelming desire to be rid of the tyranny of this wretched creature he held by the throat.

At last he knew where he was going. Not far from Grey's new establishment ran the Prince's canal, that dark, sluggish stream that threatens by its approach the fashionable residential district of the outlying West. To the canal he ran; and without hesitation he threw the yellow cat into the water.

The next day he realised what he had done. At first he was afraid, half hoping that the superstitious opinion of fear would pass. But a

MERRI THEATRE

Ronald Colman plays with success a difficult dual role in "The Masquerader," showing at the Merri to-night and Saturday, with "Wedding Rehearsal" and Walt Disney's all-color silly symphony, "Three Little Pigs." These three features are all on the one programme.

"The Masquerader" is a picturisation of the famous book, "Mr. Chilcote M.P.," and Ronald Colman shows particularly fine acting ability in the roles of the duped M.P. and the young journalist who masquerades in his place. By his action he saves a nation and wins the love of another's wife. Elissa Landi plays well as the wife, and Halliwell Hobbs as the valet. The other film, "Wedding Rehearsal," is a snappy comedy, with Roland Young and George Grossmith. As an eligible bachelor Young meets with plenty of amusing situations in an endeavour to dodge matrimony by finding suitable husbands for the ladies of his acquaintance.

Preston Voters' Lists Preston City Council notifies elsewhere that voters' lists and separate voters' lists of the municipality will be open for inspection from July 30 to 14, inclusive.

SCOUT NEWS ALL ABOUT THE BOYS

NEW SOUTH WALES AT JAMBOREE

New South Wales at Jamboree . . . SIGNIFICANT VISIT OF GENERAL SECRETARY

The organising secretary is elated with the prospects of the Australian Jamboree to be held at Frankston. Mr F. Stoddart, the general secretary of the Boy Scouts Association in New South Wales, made a special visit to Melbourne to make arrangements for the New South Wales contingent. It is expected that 1000 scouts will come by special train to Frankston, also a number of Lady Cubmasters who are keen about the project.

Deposits As this edition goes to press the deposits for the Jamboree are being collected in all the Northcote troops. 1st Northcote completed their deposits on Wednesday night with 23 scouts, 3 scouters and a goodly bunch of rovers, Frankston Activities.

On the site at Frankston an energetic committee has been busy raising money to assist local facilities. The Lord Mayor (Sir H. Gengoult Smith, K.L.) opened a fete on Wednesday which was attended by many prominent people. The funds will be used in improvements on the site. Rapid progress is being made with the work of clearing, and soon a start will be made with some of the buildings to accommodate the staff, and other functions at the Jamboree.

Requests for additional forms of application have been pouring in to Jamboree H.Q. from all quarters, indicating that large numbers of Victorian scouts will be attending. The objective of 10,000 will be easily attained.

Pagant Practice Scouts of the district will assemble at the corner of Darebin road on Saturday afternoon, July 7 at 2 p.m. to have the first Jamboree Pageant for this district. The play will be a representation of Batman purchasing the site of Melbourne.

2nd THORNBURY TROOP A successful Parents' Night was held by the 2nd Thornbury troop on Saturday June 23. A good number attended, and witnessed scout demonstrations. A Parents' Committee was formed, and Mr Stevenson appointed president, with F. W. Slicona as Hon. Sec., the first meeting will be held on July 10.

The troop will visit the Port Melbourne Scout Settlement on Tuesday night, July 3. All those attending will take any old clothes, or comics, or gifts of groceries such as tea, sugar, cocoa &c., will be welcome.

1st NORTHCOTE Four cubs from the pack who have been "brought up" were allotted to their patrols last Wednesday night. Last Thursday night a party of scouts from the troop under S.M. A. K. Williams and A.S.M. Eric Inspected the Eastern Hill Fire Brigade Station by the kind direction of Fireman No. 152. Exercises in distance judging were taken by the troop at Studley Park last Saturday. S.M. Williams being in charge.

1st WEST PRESTON Last Saturday afternoon a parade was held and several of the scouts passed tests. The majority of the troop will be attending the Jamboree, and they all aim to be second class scouts by that time.

1st PRESTON TROOP Last Saturday night the troop and pack repeated the concert at the Presbyterian Church, Janefield, in aid of the church funds. In spite of the cold night many people were present. The annual Thomas Hurford Memorial Competitions will commence on Wednesday, July 11. The Court of Honor will meet next Sunday at 5 p.m. The gymnasium class will resume next Tuesday night. Recently the Cub leaders held an instruction camp at Janefield.

Northcote Silver Star Band The concert last Friday night was well attended. Miss Ellen Sheridan assisted with two vocal items, and Miss Armstrong's pupils also performed. The band visited Coburg to assist in a concert on Wednesday night.
